Nazis Drive to Black Sea, Split Crimea

ADVANCE 100 MILES DURING EIGHT DAYS

Berlin Claims Reds Pursued South of Sevastopol; Snow Covers Corpses.

SOVIETS RETAKE CITY

Kalinin Recovered as Moscow Front Offers Russians Cheering News.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were reported to have stormed across the rugged Yaila mountains and reached the Black sea today, thus apparently splitting Russia's Crimean defense forces into three parts after a 100-mile advance in eight days.

The Berlin radio compared the Red armies' retreat with the British-French withdrawal from the bloody fields of Flanders to Dunkerque last year, declaring that roads were littered with smashed trucks and artillery while snow drifted over corpses heaped in the roadside ditches.

German troops were pictured as pursuing the Russians toward the Balaclava heights, south of Sevastopol, where the British Light Brigade made its storied charge "into the valley of death", in the Crimean war of 1853-55.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters said Nazi troops had planted their swastika battleflags on the peninsula's south coast between Sevastopol and Kerch.

German dispatches yesterday said that Kerch, at the eastern tip of the Crimea, had been isolated by Axis forces which knifed across the neck of the pear-shaped peninsula and captured the coastal town of Feodosiya.

The reported crossing of the Yaila mountains appeared as a serious blow to the Red armies' defense strategy. Soviet reports to London had said previously that Russian commanders made no attempt to stem the German sweep across the central Crimea after the break through the Perekop isthmus, gateway to the Black sea republic. Instead, these reports said, the Russians merely executed rear-guard actions while moving their main forces to strong positions along the Yaila range to cover Sevastopol and Kerch.

With the Crimean struggle evidently nearing its final stages, the Russians found more cheerful news on the central front before Moscow, where Gen. Gregory K. Zhukov's Red armies

BOO HALIFAX

Women Jeer as Ambassador Visits Cleveland.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, was roundly booed by a group of pickets, most of whom were women, when he and Lady Halifax arrived at City Hall today to call on Mayor Blythin.

As Halifax and Lady Halifax arrived in a car provided by the city and started up the City Hall steps they were loudly jeered by a crowd of about 200. Several pickets carried placards with inscribed comments critical of the British and Halifax himself.

It could not be determined at once whether the women in the crowd were members of the American Mothers, some of whose leaders were questioned by police in Detroit yesterday after the ambassador had been made the target of eggs and tomatoes thrown by a group of women.

Flies to Washington In Effort to Ease Grave Situation.

TOKYO — (AP) — The Japanese government announced today that it was sending Saburo Kurusu, former ambassador to Germany, to Washington by Transpacific clipper in an effort to reach an accord with the United States "in view of the very serious situation prevailing."

Arrangements for Kurusu's transpacific flight were made in radiophone talks last night between United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and Secretary Hull, resulting in a two-day delay of a clipper's departure from Hongkong to enable Kurusu to catch it, a government spokesman said.

The special envoy already is en route, having left Tokyo by plane yesterday.

The government spokesman said Kurusu's mission was to facilitate a United States-Japanese understanding through the talks which have been in progress in Washington since late August.

Domei, news agency with close official connections, said Kurusu would second the efforts of Ambassador Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura to "explain the Japanese situation to United States leaders, including President Roosevelt."

Nevertheless the departure of the envoy, whose title is special adviser to Ambassador Nomura, coincided with publication in the Japan Times and Advertiser, foreign office organ, of a seven-

Senator Walsh Hits 'Shooting War' In Debate on Neutrality Change.

BULLETIN

TORONTO—(AP)—Navy Minister Angus MacDonald said today that Nazi submarines are operating "off the coast of Newfoundland—within sight of the shore."

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Walsh (D., Mass.) chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, today charged that President Roosevelt has broken campaign promises by putting the navy into a shooting war in the Atlantic.

In a speech prepared for senate delivery in opposition to repeal of the major provisions of the neutrality act, Walsh asserted that such legislation would be "tantamount to our concurrence in a shooting war which the president on his own authority has proclaimed.

Walsh opposed both the provisions of the bill authorizing the arming of merchant ships and permitting them to deliver munitions and supplies direct to British ports.

In accusing Mr. Roosevelt of breaking his promises Walsh recalled campaign speeches of the president.

He said that the president

Winners In Major Contests

HOWARD G. MILLER (D.)
Council President

EARL TROLL (D.)
City Treasurer

LESLIE WAGNER (D.)
City Solicitor

Although Mayor W. J. Locke and most of his Republican ticket-mates won public offices in yesterday's municipal election, three Democrats were elected to vital posts. Howard G. Miller was returned to the presidency of council, Leslie Wagner outran Lydon H. Beam in the solicitor contest, and Earle K. Troll topped Dean Eckert for the office of city treasurer. Thus, although they won little else in the election, Democrats did carry three important posts.

G.O.P. Council Goes In With Mayor Locke

Republicans to Take Control for First Time In 11 Years By Electing Seven To Nine Seats In Legislative Body.

By WILLIAM F. MURRAY

Re-elected for his second term yesterday, Mayor William J. Locke will have a Republican-controlled council to work with during the next two years—the first G. O. P. council in 11 years.

By a drastic switch in Mansfield voting, council after Jan. 1 will consist of seven Republicans and only two Democrats. The present council consists of six Democrats and three Republicans.

The last time the Republicans held control was in 1931 when the late C. S. Moore was mayor.

The abrupt switch in the balance of power was not the only surprising feature of the council race. Three veteran Democratic councilmen were replaced, five new candidates won and a newcomer in city politics was second only to Locke in voting power on the G.O.P. tickets.

Roy W. Vaughn, Mansfield parks commissioner, making his first political bid, running as councilman-at-large, polled 5,387 votes, more than any other candidate except Mayor Locke and Howard G. Miller, who was re-elected Democratic president of council.

George L. Berg, who served as Democratic councilman for the last 16 years was ousted, by the Republican victory. Losing with him were Democrats Harry Emmons and Lester Hunter, both of whom had served two previous terms.

Democrats eliminated two other incumbents at their primaries in August when they failed to Burton Says WPA Will Probe Charge of Undue Delay.

ATHENS—(AP)—Sen. Harold H. Burton (R., Ohio) said today that Acting WPA Commissioner Francis H. Dryden would investigate the complaint of Gordon K. Bush, Ohio university trustee, of undue delay in constructing a reserve officers training corps armory here.

Bush wired federal officials that "after 15 months of delay, inefficiency, buck-passing and misrepresentations, WPA in Ohio, through district office in Zanesville, notified Ohio university that it was repudiating defense contract for the building of an armory at the university."

Burton said that he and Sen. Robert Taft (R., Ohio) consulted WPA officials in Washington and that Dryden promised a prompt inquiry and report.

IT'S DRY NOW

Ohio Village Takes Second Crack At Beer Vending.

FINDLAY — (AP) — Vanlue, a Hancock village of 355, finally is dry—and definitely. Two years ago, villagers voted out 3 2 beer, but a tavern keeper immediately obtained a 6 per cent beer permit.

So yesterday, the villagers voted 127 to 36 against sale of any kind of intoxicating drink and against establishment of a state liquor store in the village.

'MIRACLE DRUG'

New Medicine Reported Better Than Sulfanilamides.

BOSTON —(INS)— A new "miracle drug," said to be one hundred thousand times more powerful than the sulfanilamide group and hailed as a positive cure for pneumonia infections and streptococcus, was revealed today at the 31st annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons.

The new substance, called "gramicidin," a bacterial product taken from soil baccili, is, according to surgeons, so good that it is "too good"—its tremendous potency is a drawback and at present it can be used only in local applications.

Discoverer was Rene J. Dubos, of the Rockefeller Institute, who obtained it in 1939.

Eight Special Issues Carry In City, County; One Loses

Tax levies and special issues fared well in Tuesday's voting in Mansfield and Richland county, only one of nine on the ballots failing to get the approval of voters.

In most cases heavy majorities were returned for the levies and bond issues. Only one to go down to defeat was a proposed half-mill levy for park improvements in Shelby. It received a 59 percent vote but needed a 65 percent majority.

Mansfield's half-mill levy for fire protection went over by a huge majority and a three-mill Madison township school levy was renewed by a vote of 572 to 340.

Bellville voters approved a three-mill village operating levy, voting 305 for it and 94 against the levy. An $18,000 bond issue for water department improvements in Lucas passed by a vote of 155 to 17.

Two new operating levies for schools in the northern half of the county were approved by smaller margins. A two-mill Cass township levy received a 17-vote majority. The Union Rural school district voted a one-mill operating levy, giving it a total of 247 votes to 156 against it.

The Butler and Bellville village school districts voted to centralize their districts, welding them into more compact units and making it more difficult for property owners or sections of the districts to withdraw.

The vote in the Butler area was 448 for centralization and 127 against it. In Bellville, centralization was approved by 501 to 169.

TAXES TOO LOW!

Property Owner Complains of Reduction; He'll Get Action.

WALSENBURG, Colo — (INS) — A Huerfano county property owner complained today that his taxes are too low.

The taxpayer, now living in Rhode Island, wrote the county assessor and asked that a tax reduction be cancelled because his property is worth "a good deal" more than the valuation set. The request will be granted—without delay.

ALL PRECINCTS VOTE IN FAVOR OF SPECIAL TAX

Issue Receives 7,859 Votes of Approval Against 2,055 Opposed To It.

VICTORY EASY ONE

Receives 79.2 Per Cent of Votes; Only 65 Per Cent Needed For Passage.

Carrying all of Mansfield's 51 precincts in most cases by a three and four times majority, Mansfield's half mill tax levy for the rehabilitation of its antiquated fire department won an easy and surprisingly big victory yesterday.

The levy was given an approving vote of 7,859 votes against 2,055 opposing it. This affirmative poll amounted to 79.2 per cent of the total vote, almost 15 per cent more than the 65 per cent required for its passage.

Going into effect for five years, the levy will provide about $135,000 for the purchase of new apparatus and equipment, for the remodeling of two fire stations, central and No. 4 station, the construction of another, and the extension of the fire signal system to newly developed parts of the city.

The vote, larger than any given a Mansfield levy or bond issue for several years, was even more surprising to political observers who predicted that increased federal taxes and the rise in the cost of living would cause Mansfield voters to reject the levy.

L. B. Hamilton, general chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Adequate Fire Protection, expressed gratitude for all the work done by members of the committee and other organizations as well as the voters who helped make the levy passage successful.

"We will have a meeting in the next few days," said Hamilton, "to organize a permanent body which will keep a constant check on the expenditure of the levy revenue. People from all sections of the city will be asked to serve on the permanent body. We intend to keep in constant contact with council until the job is finished."

Thousands Given Election Results In Fastest Time

Thousands of Mansfielders received up-to-the-minute returns on yesterday's election at The News-Journal's election party last night—long before the results were completed even at the county election board.

Working with clock-like precision, News-Journal tabulators kept a running fire of returns on the silver screen, and provided results for hundreds of telephone callers.

Within four hours after the polls had closed, the hundreds of spectators who watched the figures as they were flashed on the screen knew the outcome of all the races—from mayor on down through the ward council contests.

At 10:10 p. m., Fred M. Bushnell, Democratic candidate for mayor, conceded the election to his Republican opponent, Mayor

Four of Seven Villages In County to Have New Mayors

Four of Richland county's seven incorporated villages will start 1942 with new mayors, with the other three re-electing their present mayors in Tuesday's voting.

The candidates for mayor in South Boulevards and Butler were unopposed while the other five village heads were elected by substantial majorities.

With no candidate on the ballot, Lucas voters elected Arthur Darling mayor by the write-in method. He received 40 votes to 25 for Paul Hawkins, the runner-up. Rhoda Myers was elected clerk of Lucas and Emma Chamberlin, treasurer.

R. K. Clark, a Republican, was unopposed for mayor of South Boulevards. He succeeds E. C. Flory who was not a candidate. Re-elected without opposition were Harry Scoles, clerk, and C. W. Barnes, treasurer. All candidates for offices in the new suburban village were unopposed.

Mayor to Have 7 to 2 Margin In City Council

Republicans Sweep Council Posts But Democrats Miller, Troll and Wagner Win Council Presidency, Treasurer And City Solicitor Contests.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

Mansfield yesterday elected its first two-term Republican mayor in 14 years, re-electing Mayor William J. Locke by a 1,768 majority over his Democratic opponent, Fred M. Bushnell, former Mansfield postmaster. The vote was: Locke, 5,983; Bushnell, 4,215.

With split-ticket voting that characterizes municipal elections in Mansfield, voters also erased the Democratic majority in council, electing seven Republicans to two Democrats but gave substantial majorities to the Democratic candidates for council president, city solicitor, and city treasurer.

When the new council assembles next January it will mark for the first time in 11 years that Republicans have held a majority. In the present council there are six Democrats and three Republicans.

Only 10,354 voters went to the polls, about 55 per cent of the city registration. Election board officials said it was one of the lightest votes ever cast in a municipal election in the city.

Holding city administration posts with Mayor Locke and the Republican council will be three Democrats, Howard G. Miller, re-elected president of council; Leslie K. Wagner, city solicitor, and Earle K. Troll, city treasurer. Democrats already hold the city solicitor and city treasurer offices.

Locke, headed the G. O. P. ticket, polling approximately 600 more votes than the next highest man. On the Democratic side, Leslie Wagner, elected city solicitor over Lydon H. Beam, topped the ticket. He had 5,816 votes to Beam's 4,070.

In winning his second term, Mayor Locke carried 38 of the city's 51 precincts, losing only the Fourth and Fifth wards, usually heavily Democratic. He showed surprising strength, however, in the Fifth ward, winning two of the six precincts and losing another by only one vote. In the ward's Precinct B he polled 107 votes to 47 for Bushnell and led every other candidate on both tickets by a vote of nearly two to one.

The mayor and Bushnell were tied in two wards. Both polled 81 votes in Precinct K of the Third ward and 94 votes in Precinct C of the Sixth ward. Locke ran ahead of his ticket in virtually every precinct, the only Republican candidate to carry several of them.

Locke is the first Republican mayor to win a second term in Mansfield since the late J. Earl Ports was re-elected in 1927. He resigned before completing his second term and was succeeded by A. F. Porter, also a Republican.

Locke's majority in yesterday's election was about 200 greater than his margin over Claude M. Hunter two years ago when Locke was elected by slightly more than 1,500 votes.

The Democrats salvaged only the Fourth and Fifth ward council posts, losing all three council-

LA GUARDIA WINS FOR THIRD TIME

Defeats Tammany Candidate By Easy Margin In New York Voting.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Fiorello H. La Guardia, whose ability to drive himself like a human dynamo had made him one of President Roosevelt's ace defense men, has been chosen to run the nation's largest city for four more years—the first man ever to hold the job three times in a row.

The sharp-tongued little man in the black sombrero, probably the nation's leading exponent of the theory that municipal government is a science, outdistanced by a margin of 133,841 votes the opposition of Brooklyn District Attorney William F. O'Dwyer, candidate of the city's one potent Democratic organizations, in yesterday's mayoralty election.

The complete vote was La Guardia, 1,186,394; O'Dwyer, 1,052,553, and George W. Hartmann, Socialist candidate, 21,402.

With the four-square support of the Republican, American Labor, Fusion and United City parties, La Guardia administered his third sound licking to Tammany Hall and allied political organizations in the face of a combination of state and national Democratic leaders seldom equalled in the city's political history.

Although the New York voting stirred up the most general interest, several other elections yesterday commanded regional attention.

at-large and the Sixth ward offices to the Republicans. Fred Miller, veteran Fifth ward Democrat, was re-elected without opposition. Michael A. Mihalick, a newcomer in politics, was an easy winner over William Owings, the Republican candidate in the Fourth Ward.

Closest council race was in the Sixth ward where Paul Bush, Republican, defeated Stanley L. Wilburn, Democrat, by less than 50 votes.

Elected councilmen-at-large were Roy W. Vaughn, George Kyle, present Third war councilman, and James R. Anderson, who was defeated by only 26 votes two years ago. They defeated Democratic Councilmen George Berg, Harry M. Emmons, and Lester D. Hunter.

Republican ward councilmen who were re-elected by sizeable majorities were Russell D. Porch over Wilberd Fiegenbaum in the First ward, and the veteran Charles N. Shultz, who defeated Joseph F. Foncannon in the Republican Second ward.

Kyle's successor in the Third Ward will be Clifford G Knarr, victor over Richard Wynn, who was making his first bid for a political office. Knarr is the only Republican ever elected to council from the Fifth Ward. He represented that ward in the city body several years ago.

Council President Miller was another Democrat who had little trouble winning. He received 5,389 votes to defeat W. C. Mansfield, the Republican nominee, by a majority of 931.

The closest race outside council was between Earle K. Troll, Democrat, and Dean A. Eckert, Republican for city treasurer. Troll was the winner by 262 votes, polling 5,082 votes to Eckert's 4,820.

Vaugn, polling 5,387 votes, Kyle, 5,165, and Anderson, 4,878, defeated the Democratic incumbent councilmen-at-large, Berg, whose total vote was 4,505, Emmons, 4,258, and Hunter, 4,372.

In the ward council contests, Councilman Porch in the First ward was winner over Feigenbaum, 1,505 to 927; Shultz defeated Foncannon in the Second ward, 1,252 to 491; Knarr won over Wynn in the Third ward, 1,194 to 864; Mihalic defeated Owings in the Fourth, 676 to 321; Fred Miller was re-elected without opposition in the Democratic Fifth, receiving 629 complimentary votes, while Bush edged out Wilburn in the Sixth ward, 774 to 733, a margin of 41 votes.

Mayor Locke said after the final returns were in last night that he had "three things to be grateful for—my own victory, the way the half-mill levy went over, and the Republican majority in council.

"I'm glad the levy went over so big Support of that kind shows the people of Mansfield are progressive enough to be willing to pay for improvements they need." Locke said

"The support I received makes me more determined than ever to devote every energy to helping to solve the problems facing the city The mayor's office belongs to every one in Mansfield and I'll appreciate constructive suggestions from any one," he said.

When it was apparent that Locke would be elected, Bushnell congratulated him and told the mayor he was willing to cooperate in any way possible to help make the city better."

After congratulating the mayor, Bushnell told The News-Journal that "Bill Locke and I are very good friends and I am glad to offer him my sincere wishes and I am willing to cooperate in any way I can."

FIRE LEVY IN EASY VICTORY

Issue Receives 7,859 Votes of Approval Against 2,055 Opposed To It.

thanked all persons working for the levy's passage and the voters for their favorable vote. Members of the fire department, all of whom worked actively in the campaign, also expressed their appreciation for work done by the committee and other organizations, as well as the voters

This was the third time Mansfield residents considered an increase in its fire protection system in the past three years In 1938, fire protection was included in a program to promote the extension of the city's water and sewer supply and in 1939 it rode along with four other city activities in a bond issue which was rejected Both times the voters rejected the plans by sizeable amounts.

The passage of the levy will enable the purchase of new apparatus to replace "rattletrap" fire equipment which has been in service from 12 to 22 years.

The city's fire apparatus has failed several times during the past year and has broken down on the way to fires.

About a quarter of the levy revenue, $65,880, will be used to purchase new apparatus. At least four of the trucks, two of which are 18 years old and two which are 22, will probably be replaced Part of the revenue will also be used to purchase new, needed fire hose Firemen have had to rewind wet hose because they had no reloads for their trucks.

Station No 1 is to be remodeled to permit the removal of the fire signal system switchboard and controls to a safer position At present, it is subject to occasional floods which endanger the system. To move the equipment to new quarters $4,830 will be needed.

Also to be remodeled is Station No 4 in the northern part of the city. The building was constructed for the old-time horse-drawn equipment and has deteriorated a great deal since it was built in 1911.

A new station will be built in the western end of the city to give fire protection to the many new homes there. About $27,000 will be spent to build the station and to completely outfit it for operation.

Another $27,000 will be needed to extend the fire signal system into the city's suburbs. At present, residents in the outlying districts have to telephone or drive to the nearest fire station to report a fire

The levy, amounting to five cents on every $100 of tax valuation, will be collected along with other taxes The revenue can be used only for fire protection

Mansfield's tax rate will not be raised, however, because a half mill is being sliced from the present rate of 16 mills Addition of the fire levy will bring it back to 16 mills.

Strongest support for the levy came from the First Ward where voters gave a vote of approval by a vote of 2,512 while dissenters polled only 505 votes.

Other wards listed in order of their support of the levy included: Third Ward, For—1,695, Against—450 Second Ward, For—1,534 Against—276; Sixth Ward, For—1,193, Against—347, Fifth Ward For — 733, Against — 249, and Fourth Ward, For — 614, and Against—228

TOWN'S SHOCKED---BECAUSE NEWBORN DAUGHTER'S HELLER

(By United Press)

WEATHERFORD, Tex — A tempest stirred today in the teacup society of this home town of singer Mary Martin because the "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" girl named her infant daughter "Heller."

Mrs Martin grew up here and taught dancing until she left for Broadway and stardom and when her daughter was born yesterday she announced immediately that she and husband Richard Halliday would name her "Heller" because "that's what folks in Weatherford call a particularly pert and vivacious girl."

But the unanimous—and anonymous—consensus here was:

"Why I never heard the likes of that. Little girls aren't called Heller in Weatherford."

The Tuesday bridge club and the Ladies Aid society members, who had overlooked the fact that Miss Martin's stage success was won with a modified strip tease, did not want to be quoted because, they all said, they knew Mary too well and they didn't want to hurt her feelings

"But—"

(1) "Mary was a little lady and a well-mannered child, certainly not a little devil and I don't know where she could have gotten an idea like that."

(2) "It's probably just one of Mary's passing whims When the baby is christened, I'll bet it will be as Mary and not as Heller."

Heller Halliday, 7 pounds 13 ounces, and mother were reported from Hollywood to be doing fine today.

Advance 100 Miles In 8 Days; Russians Cheered By Retaking of Kalinin.

were reported to have recaptured the city of Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the U. S. S. R. capital.

Soviet front-line dispatches also declared that a German column which advanced five miles in the Mozhaisk sector, 57 miles west of Moscow, had been thrown back after a four-hour battle of mechanized units.

The Russians said Field Marshal General Fedor von Bock's central front armies had failed to make appreciable progress at Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, where the Germans were last reported to have battled their way into the city's outskirts

The Soviet newspaper Izvestia's correspondent said that the heaviest fighting in the 34-day-old Nazi drive on Moscow was now raging in the Volokolamsk sector, 65 miles to the northwest, and that the Germans, commanding a 3-to-1 numerical superiority, were sending waves of 100 to 150 tanks against Red army defenses.

Soviet warplanes supporting the Red offensive at Kalinin, the scene of some of the bloodiest fighting of the campaign, were credited officially with destroying eight German infantry companies (about 2,000 men) and more than 1,300 trucks.

On the Leningrad front, Hitler's high command said heavy German fire had smashed another Russian attempt to cross the Neva river, a few miles south of the old czarist capital

"Half of the 100 boats used were sunk and the rest compelled to turn back," the German communique said.

"Renewed attempts of the enemy to break out on other parts of the (Leningrad) pocket were for the most part broken up in the course of preparation."

German military commentators declared that "daily repeated attempts by the Russians to break out" of Leningrad, which has been siege-bound for many weeks, indicated that the situation inside the great northern metropolis was becoming "more unbearable"

Nazi bombers again attacked Leningrad and Moscow during the night, the high command said, and pounded the automobile and aircraft manufacturing center of Gorki, 250 miles east of Moscow.

German dispatches from the Crimea pictured the Russians as retreating in headlong flight but acknowledged that the Soviet Black sea fleet, hovering off the coast, was a threat to Nazi columns moving toward Sevastopol and Kerch.

Two Russian warships have already exchanged fire with heavy German batteries on the Crimea but were forced to break off the engagement, the Nazis asserted

Striking to destroy Soviet naval strength and block any attempt by the Red Crimean armies to escape by sea Nazi dive-bombers were reported to have sunk two Russian transports and damaged five merchantmen and a small cruiser in attacks on the harbors of Sevastopol, Yalta and Kerch.

Elsewhere on the southern front, Stefani the official Italian news agency, reported that Fascist troops were advancing into the Donets river basin but acknowledged their progress was being hampered by furious Soviet attacks first, on Oct. 24, 1940, declared that American ships must stay out of war zones to avoid possibility of America being involved in war.

"A few days later, almost on the eve of election, speaking in the city of Boston, in my own state, on Oct 30, the president declared—and I will recall his words 'I have said this before, and I shall say it again and again: Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars'," Walsh said.

What is the difference in sending American boys in army uniforms to aid in defense of the British Iles, to sending boys in the uniform of the American navy into the combat zones around the British Isles, to sending boys to from the very beginning has been waged in undiminished intensity?

"Are we less concerned with the lives and fate of our boys in naval uniform than our boys in the khaki of the army? Are their lives any less precious?"

Walsh said that Mr. Roosevelt may have believed he could accomplish the defeat of Hitler without America going to war.

"It is idle now to discuss what may have been the administration's original purpose or original desire," said Walsh "Step by step we have moved into the war. This is now the last, and, to my mind, the fateful step."

Attacking Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that freedom of the seas is at stake, Walsh said

"To say that this century-old doctrine of freedom of the seas entitles this nation or any nation, in time of war, to send contraband of war through combat waters, to one or more of the belligerents, is without a particle of historical foundation.

Continuing his assault on Mr. Roosevelt's doctrine of freedom of the seas, Walsh said that Great Britain's action in refusing to permit shipments of food to Belgium and France violates the doctrine of freedom of the seas as proclaimed by the administration.

Asserting that a vote for neutrality act revision would be a congressional endorsement in a shooting war Walsh said there is "no such thing as partial war."

"Either we are in the war or we are out," he said, "and it is now abundantly clear that we are in, by reason of a course of action which congress neither sanctioned or approved; a course which in some respects is in utter disregard of policy which the congress proclaimed and of statutes which congress has enacted; a course which is gone far beyond what had heretofore been regarded the constitutional prerogative of the chief executive."

Determination of opposition senators to continue debate delayed a vote on the revision of the neutrality act originally scheduled for today Sen. Connally (D., Tex.) chairman of the foreign relations committee was endeavoring to get a roll call tomorrow.

renominate J. J. Kutschall as Fourth ward candidate and Arthur L. Croak as Sixth ward candidate.

Croak's successor, Stanley L. Wilburn was defeated but the victor over Kutschall in the primaries, Michael Mihalick, was elected.

Vaughn and three other councilmen will take office for the first time on Jan. 1. Mihalick, James R. Anderson, councilman-at-large, and Paul Bush, Sixth ward, are the new councilmen. Clifford Knarr, who was elected in the Third ward, is also a new candidate. Knarr, however, served in council several years ago.

The switch to the Republicans will leave Fred Miller, Fifth ward councilman, who was elected without opposition, and Mihalick, a newcomer, as the only Democratic councilmen to face the Republican majority.

Republicans returned George C. Kyle, present Third ward councilman, as councilman-at-large; Russell D. Porch of the First ward for his third term; and Second Ward Councilman C. N. Shultz, veteran member.

The election will leave the city with a "lame-duck" council. Only four of the nine councilmen holding posts at present will return after the first of the year. Kyle, Fred Miller, Porch and Shultz will retain their position while Kutschall, Croak, Emmons, Berg and Hunter will leave.

Howard G. Miller, Democratic president of council, led the Democratic ticket, polling 5,459 votes. Miller will return for his second term as president of council.

The line-up at present is Democrats, Howard Miller as president; Berg, Hunter and Emmons at large, Kutschall in the Fourth ward, Fred Miller in the Fifth ward and Croak in the Sixth Republicans, Porch in the First ward, Shultz in the Second ward and Kyle in the Third ward.

The new line-up will include: Democrats, Howard Miller as president, Miller in the Fifth ward and Mihalick in the Fourth ward. Republicans, Porch in the First ward, Shultz in the second, Clifford Knarr in the Third ward; Paul Bush in the Sixth; and Roy W. Vaughn, James R. Anderson and Kyle as councilmen-at-large.

Defeats Tammany Candidate By Easy Margin In New York Voting.

Virginia Democrats rolled up a landslide majority for their gubernatorial nominee, former Representative Colgate W. Darden of Norfolk, but Fairfax county, embracing George Washington's Mt. Vernno home and burial place, provided an unexpected upset by electing a Republican, Col. R. R. Farr, to the state house of delegates.

Republican nominees for Pennsylvania supreme and superior court judgeships pulled away from their Democratic opponents on the basis of incomplete returns, and Scranton, Lancaster, Uniontown and Hazleton named Republican mayors. Democrat Cornelius D. Scully managed, however, to retain the mayorship of Pittsburgh.

Maurice J. Tobin won re-election as mayor of Boston, thwarting a comeback campaign by James M. Curley. Both are registered Democrats.

Balloting on some legislative candidates and on proposed constitutional changes aroused little interest in Kentucky, since Democratic control of the state legislature was not at stake.

Other election results:

Detroit: Incumbent Edward J. Jeffries defeated Joseph A. Gillis for mayor in non-partisan balloting.

Bridgeport, Conn.: Mayor Jasper McLevy, Socialist, won a fifth term

LAUSCHE WINS IN OHIO'S TOP MAYOR BATTLE

Dems Unseat 10 Republicans But 24 GOP Candidates Hold Mayoralties.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — By a record-smashing majority of approximately 50,000 ballots Frank John Lausche next Monday will become Cleveland's first Democratic mayor in eight years.

Cleveland-born son of Yugoslavian immigrants, former Judge who drove commercial gambling out of the suburbs, Lausche defeated Republican incumbent Edward Blythin for the next two-year term yesterday by the greatest margin in the city's history.

Return from 970 of 1,016 precincts gave Lausche 138,651 ballots and Blythin 89,034.

Democrats unseated Republican mayors in at least 10 other Ohio cities, unofficial returns showed.

Democratic incumbents lost at least four mayor's chairs to Republicans, while at least nine Democrats were re-elected.

The six-year Republican regime of Lee D. Schroy ended at Akron with the election of George J. Harter, blind Democratic state representative, to the mayoralty.

In Dayton Frank M. Krebs polled high vote for city commission and will be new mayor of the city, succeeding John F. Ahlers who was also re-elected to the commission along with Kurt Roehll. The mayoralty contest was non-partisan.

At least 24 Republican mayors were re-elected, including Mayor Edward S. Folk of Canton in a close race with Charles W. Weeks, Democrat. The Canton campaign was enlivened when Mrs. Winifred Weeks Gardner of Knoxville, Md., declared at a Republican meeting that Weeks, her brother, was a "Nazi sympathizer" and urged his defeat. Later four relatives of Weeks defended him against the accusation.

Unofficial returns indicated these other mayors were elected:

Former Czarist Leader Offers To Fight For Reds

CHICAGO— (INS) —Though the Soviet Russians have banned his book, "The White Archive," and even set a price upon his head, Col. Jacques M. Lissovoy, a former member of the Russian imperial general staff, volunteered for service in the Russian army and a chance to take a crack at Adolf Hitler.

Col. Lissovoy came to the United States in 1923 when he escaped from Red Russia with the help of British and American naval officers.

He was the first officer of the imperial general staff to join the White Russian army.

point program which it said the United States must accept if an accord is to be reached.

In effect this called on America to withdraw her influence from the Orient, recognize Japan's military, economic and diplomatic conquests of the past ten years and approve her "new order" in Greater East Asia.

The same paper returned to the attack with an editorial in its afternoon edition, urging the United States to sacrifice the Chungking government of China to ensure peace and to compose her differences with Japan before turning her full attention to her crisis with Germany.

This is within America's reach, the paper said, "because she is not so irrevocably committed to support of Chungkings as to fortifying Britain."

Kurusu is famous as the diplomat who signed for Japan the three-power Axis alliance at Berlin Sept. 27, 1940, when he was ambassador to Germany.

His mission represents a third stage in recent Japanese efforts to reach an accord with the United States and prevent the deepening Pacific crisis—intensified from Japan's viewpoint by the economic and military measures taken in the Pacific area by the United States and Britain—from producing a clash.

The first stage opened with Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye's still unpublished letter to President Roosevelt late in August. The second was represented by the return to Washington last month of Kaname Wakasugi, Japanese minister, who was understood to have carried new instructions.

(Prince Fumimaro Konoye, while premier, sent a letter to President Roosevelt last August which led to protracted talks. Washington sources at the time said the message opened the way for negotiations which might settle questions of peace or war in the Pacific.

(The talks languished and Konoye went out of office. Since then the Japanese press has persisted in a campaign forecasting failure of the negotiations and seeking to lay the responsibility on Washington's doorstep.)

W. J. Locke, after he had been advised by The News-Journal that 44 of the city's 51 precincts showed Locke leading by more than 1,000 votes.

An innovation at this year's election party was the flashing of pictures of the mayoralty candidates on the screen along with the returns.

Athough the board of elections did not receive the report from the last precinct in the city until 11:30 p. m., The News-Journal had returns from the entire city tabulated by 10:20 p. m.

Enthusiastic crowds milled about at the election party and at the courthouse where the election board announced precinct returns as they were received.

First precinct in the county to report was Precinct D in Sharon township which brought in its votes at 7:45 p. m. Five minutes later, Precinct A in Madison township was reported.

Precinct J in the Third Ward was the first city precinct reporting and was received at 8 p. m., an hour and a half after the polls had closed. The last precinct report was made by the Fourth Ward's Precinct C at 11:30 p. m.

Walter Underwood, deputy clerk of the board of elections, in a pre-election guess as the total vote, predicted that 10,300 votes would be cast, only 146 more than the official total.

In Plymouth, Joseph B. Derr won over H. A. Vandervort for mayor. The vote was 163 to 115. J. H. Rhine was elected village clerk and Leon Z. Davis, treasurer. Derr will succeed Mayor William Johns who was not a candidate.

Shiloh voters elected Don Hamman to the mayor's post, giving him a big majority over C. D. Nelson. George W. Page, the incumbent mayor, did not seek re-election. H. B. Miller was elected clerk and F. L. Black, treasurer.

PICK CAREFULLY AMONG ISSUES

Ohio Voters Approve About as Many Bond Requests as They Reject.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio voters — in the face of mounting defense taxes — picked carefully among bond issues in yesterday's elections—but on the basis of returns from scattered cities approved about as many issues as they rejected.

In Zanesville a $1,000,000 school improvement issue lacked about 300 votes of the required 65 per cent, but got 9,161 to 5,315 against.

In Warren, however, a $275,000 school expansion issue passed by a margin of about 1,000 votes, 7,788 to 3,481.

Akron approved a $500,000 fire department improvement program; and Marion okayed a $200,000 hospital. Kent passed by better than 3 to 1 a $150,000 storm sewer issue, 2,130 to 659.

Allen township in Ottawa county approved a $150,000 new Centralized school, but Ottawa county voters rejected a $160,000 proposal for a new jail and courthouse annex.

A new vocational high school bond issue for $135,000 failed in Elyria, and a $50,000 school bond issue in East Liverpool drew only 44.5 per cent approval. Piqua voters defeated by less than one per cent a $50,000 trade school proposal; but nearby Troy approved an $85,000 bond issue for an industrial arts high school.

In midwestern Ohio Sabina in Clinton county authorized $20,000 in improvements to its city building; but Bellefontaine rejected a fire station improvement issue and Celina turned down a $20,000 playgrounds issue.

The city of Campbell turned down a $25,000 issue for school improvements.

NEW SELF DEFENSE LOANS

COST NOTHING
For The First Three Months

Yes, It's True. You can now get a "SELF-DEFENSE" loan . . . with interest free for the first three months.

And just what is a "SELF-DEFENSE" loan?

It's a loan of any amount from $100 up to $1000 the proceeds of which are used either wholly or partially for any of the following "SELF-DEFENSE" purposes:

2. Paying bills and obligations. (except to lenders)
3. Making repairs and betterments.

Or for any other approved purpose.

Example: You borrow $350 and use $400 for clothing, $40 for coal, $25 to pay a doctor bill, $75 for tires and repairs on your car, $50 for your son's schooling, and $60 to pay off another loan. Total, $350. All these items are "Self-Defense" items except the $60 loan pay-off. So during the first three months of the loan you pay interest only on the $60 . . . no cost on the upper $290.

Mayor Locke Elected To Second Term

REVERSING the policy of ousting a mayor after he had served one term and was becoming acquainted with the duties of the office, Mansfield voters yesterday decided to retain Mayor William J. Locke for a second two-year term.

Except in cases of obvious incompetency, the idea of confining the service of a mayor to one term has many disadvantages, from the standpoint of business-like handling of public affairs, as, ordinarily, the man elected to that office enters it without training for the position or any knowledge of the operation of various departments of city business.

Much of the first year in office is therefore given to learning the things that must be known by a competent official, and to making the probably inescapable mistakes properly attributable to inexperience.

But by the time these things have been learned it is necessary for an incumbent to begin thinking toward candidacy for a second term, and proceeding in accordance with political expediency.

After election to a second term, however, there is no reason why a city should not benefit materially from the experience and knowledge which a mayor gains during his first term, as political considerations need not weigh so heavily and re-election to a third term as mayor is recognizedly reserved for the occasional official whose competency results in public demand for his continuance in office.

Entering his second term, Mayor Locke will also have a Republican majority in city council with which to work, thus placing responsibility on that party in both the legislative and executive departments.

Mansfield's inclination toward independent voting was shown, however, in the election of Democrats for three offices, solicitor, treasurer and president of council.

While it may be regretted that yesterday's vote of little above ten thousand represented only about one-half of the total eligible voters in Mansfield, it is assumed that the ten thousand who didn't vote will be satisfied with results and will give whole-hearted co-operation to the chosen officials in their efforts to conduct public business in a way that will justify the confidence reposed in them.

Voters Approve Half-Mill Fire Levy

PUBLIC awareness of Mansfield's urgent need for improved fire-fighting facilities was evidenced by yesterday's favorable vote on the one-half mill tax levy, revenue from which is intended solely to pay for new fire department apparatus and equipment; remodel fire stations No. 1 and No. 4; provide for site and construction of one new fire station, and improve the fire signal system.

Tireless and intelligent work by a citizens' committee, encouraged by the endorsement and aid of a number of local organizations, was effective in overcoming present-day inclination of many voters to oppose any tax levy or bond issue proposal and this issue was passed by a majority well above the 65 per cent requirement.

Funds from the levy, estimated to approximate $135,000 during the five-year period of its effectiveness, will not be immediately available for intended use, so the potential benefits will actually constitute a five-year program, during which one or two changes of city administration may be anticipated.

This absence of assured continuity in the management of city business makes it especially important that the Citizens' Committee for Fire Protection in Mansfield carry through its pledge, as announced before the election by L. B. Hamilton, general chairman, that the citizens' organization will be continued and "will assist in every way to get for Mansfield a fire department that is adequate AND SEE THAT EVERY DOLLAR DESIGNATED FOR THIS DEPARTMENT IS SPENT IN A WAY THAT WILL BE SATISFACTORY TO EVERY HOME OWNER, FACTORY AND BUSINESS HOUSE."

It is impossible to foresee changes in the personnel of city management over a five-year period but it appears not impracticable to assure maintenance of an interested, alert and conscientious citizens' committee during that time, pledged to the purposes above set forth.

War Is Brought Closer Home

ANNOUNCEMENT that 97 American officers and enlisted men lost their lives when the U. S. S. destroyer Reuben James was torpedoed and sunk west of Iceland five days ago, brings the reality of warfare much closer home than it had been before this occurrence.

The fact that a young man from the neighboring city of Bucyrus is among those believed lost when the Reuben James was sunk serves to localize interest in this tragedy—which was the first mass killing of Americans in Nazi Germany's ruthless war on civilization—and all that the word "civilization" stands for.

Those who recall incidents of the first World war, and the sorrow visited upon this city and vicinity when word came of the death of young men who were serving their country in that conflict, will have vividly in mind the torture which individuals, communities, and the nation as a whole endured at that time, and there has been steadfast hope that repetition of those conditions could be avoided.

It now appears, however, that until the military defeat of the Axis powers has been accomplished, America must again suffer losses of lives and property, as has been the fate of other nations against which Hitler and his Nazi hordes have taken aggressive action.

A distressing phase of the present situation is the slowness with which congress is moving toward such revision of the neutrality law as will permit arming American merchant ships and taking other steps necessary to safeguard munitions and other war supplies being sent from "the arsenal of democracy" to the foes of Hitler who are now bearing the brunt of battle.

The case for those who favor neutrality revision was stated clearly yesterday by Senator Norris, the only man still in the senate who voted against American entry into the World war. Senator Norris said: "You cannot compare the present war with the last one. The United States has no choice except to arm our ships and permit them to sail to the ports of our friends. . . . If Hitler should win out over Russia and Great Britain then no free nation in the world would be secure."

ANOTHER DISTRIBUTION PROBLEM

Catastrophe Announced Too Soon

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Censorship is generally exasperatingly stupid. It is the stupidity, for more than that natural desire of any government to cover up its blunders from an inquiring press, which causes newspaper men to worry about it.

So it will seem strange that the writer should advocate more drastic censorship than we are having, so far as one particular kind of news is concerned.

But—why was the sinking of the Reuben James announced when it was? Why could not the news of that sinking have been delayed until a complete list of the saved could have been announced along with it?

The moment the sinking was announced the mothers, fathers, sweethearts and friends of the boys on board the ill-fated destroyer received a blow that would be difficult to exaggerate. Then came the word, some six or seven hours later, that forty-four enlisted men had been rescued. Accompanying this was the assurance that this did not mean hope should be abandoned for the other enlisted men, nor for the officers.

NOW this seems a dreadful thing to have done to the mothers and fathers and loved ones of 140 persons. It was done in the belief that it would be days before an accurate list of the survivors, in fact ANY list of the survivors, could be obtained.

Consider for a moment the ordeal through which this procedure put EVERY loved one of 140 men! And what did it accomplish save headlines which would have been just as effective one week later, when the names of those lost and those saved could have been announced simultaneously?

There is no purpose here to criticize the policy of withholding the names. Obviously the ships in the vicinity could not be using their wireless without disclosing positions which might result in additional torpedo attacks on the same convoy. The question is not as to the intelligence of not giving out more information sooner. The question is why the original information was not withheld until it could be accompanied by complete information as to the names of the survivors.

In fact, it is possible that the announcement of the sinking of the Reuben James was of value to the Nazi admiralty, whereas it was almost certainly of no value to the German submarine activities whether the name of any given survivor on that destroyer was named Brown or Robinson.

WE HAVE heard a lot of criticism of the British censorship. Some of it seemed to be abundantly justified as we sat with our after dinner coffee cups in hand and listened. But we have also heard something else. We have been told repeatedly where the loss of a warship was concealed—where the relatives of the known dead were notified, and required not to announce the fact—not even to wear mourning lest it become known!

Certain specific instances of this seemed rather futile, as we listened. But the writer does not recall a story of foreign censorship that seemed as inept as announcing that a ship had been sunk, with hours before an announcement that 44 of her enlisted men had been saved, and then no names for days!

Should Public Pay?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A COLLEGE COURSE—"Does Young America need it? Should Uncle Sam pay for it?"

A red-headed co-ed recently hurled those questions at me. And we've been dodging blitzes ever since. Like a little domestic excitement to keep your mind off the war? Then here it comes:

"What," demanded an exuberant young gent from Chicago, "do you mean by 'college education'? If you mean trade schools, commercial courses for both sexes, such as aviation, engineering, chemistry, nursing dietetics, etc., the discussion is futile. Such instruction is already being offered free by city, state and federal departments. But 'college education' should surely mean more than that.

"College education should mean learning how to live... Not merely learning how to make a living. A college course is, of course, essential to a professional career, but it should also give the specialized fun and friendliness, culture and co-operation which purely commercial training cannot give.

"It is obvious," concluded the young gentleman from Chicago, "that the U. S. A. will always need well-trained craftsmen and housewives, particularly in the straitened circumstances which are bound to follow the war. But 'man cannot live by bread alone.' We will need culture as well as cash. We will need trained brains as well as trained hands to carry on the high standards of American democracy. And this plainly demands many items beside slate pencils and building blocks. It requires all the refinements of sophisticated society which Fraternities and Sororities give... a knowledge of the arts...a love of beauty...correct dressing... formals...tuxes...smooth sport clothes...beach parties...ski parties... a car..."

Quite a program! And plainly one which the average family cannot afford. So what?

"SO GO WITHOUT IT!" snorts 17-year-old CLAUDE WHITNEY, JR., SENIOR OF COLBY H. S., COLBY, WIS.

"I definitely do not believe we should use federal money to subsidize college courses at times like these, no matter how deserving the student. A college education is never 'vitally necessary' unless one enters the professional field.

"Young America's initiative and pride and independence are its most cherished traditions. Let's not let our fathers down! Next year I intend to enter college and work my own way through. I have prepared for this for four years. If I can't find anything better, I'll sling hash! But whatever my job, I'll do it 'The American Way'!"

However, CHARLOTTE TAORMINA, 17-year-old of 48 Shadyside Ave., Summit, N. J., doesn't agree.

"'There'll be some changes made' when this war is over," says C. T. "Young America will need a wider outlook than its parents ever did...and will face a far greater responsibility. We will have to set the standards of culture in a new and shattered world. And since the U. S. A. will ask so much more of us in tolerance, poise and confidence, I believe it should be willing to foot the bills.'

But HONORA O'CONNOR (20 years) of W.M.C.E., KALAMAZOO, MICH., cries:

"I don't believe Uncle Sam should pay young America's college education because it would give the government an increasingly tyrannical hold on youth which would force young Americans to follow the administration blindly. It would also force our colleges into a regimented mold. Young American wants an education—yes! But above everything it wants to own its own soul."

Wide reasons. Straight thinking. What do YOU think of it? If YOU were 18, and facing this modern world, what would YOUR answer be?

Not For Hopkins To Sell.

Harry Hopkins went to Moscow on a public mission at public expense. He was able to get information there and to have a talk with Stalin, all because of his official position. Any information he obtained under these circumstances that could be properly given out, the public was entitled to at once. The newspapers were open to anything he had to say.

Instead Hopkins comes home and sells his public information to a magazine as if it were his private property. In doing this he was following numerous distinguished examples. This does not excuse the impropriety of his action.—Kansas City Times.

Lewis Waited for An 'Invitation' Before Going to the White House

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis didn't go to the conference with the president, at which the miner boss backed down on the "captive" mine strike, until he was assured that he was being "invited."

Lewis wanted it clearly understood that he was not asking to see Roosevelt.

Myron Taylor, astute former head of the United States Steel corporation, diplomatically smoothed the way for the "invitation."

Taylor and Lewis had conferred alone in the former's hotel suite for several hours, discussing the proposal, later agreed to by Lewis, to submit the closed shop issue to the national defense mediation board.

During this meeting, Taylor, fresh from a mission to Rome, talked at length on the extreme gravity of the international situation, the great danger facing the United States and the crucial role it is playing in world affairs. He made it clear that now is not the time to rock the boat. Lewis, who fancies himself an authority on international affairs, was much impressed.

After lunch, the two men were joined, at the president's request, by Will Davis, chairman of the mediation board. Davis is another of Lewis's pet peeves, so his pressure did not soothe the union leader's touchy sensibilities. Davis is the one man in the administration who has stood up to Lewis.

Finally, Taylor suggested that the three go to the White House for a personal talk with the president. It had been many months since Lewis and Roosevelt had been face to face.

To Taylor's proposal, Lewis replied, "I won't go without an invitation."

"All right," said Taylor quietly, "I'll see if we can get an invitation."

He picked up the 'phone, asked for the White House and was promptly connected with the president, to whom he said, "We have been talking over a plan, Mr. President, and think we ought to come and see you about it."

Roosevelt replied he would see them immediately. Taylor turned to Lewis and said, "Is that all right with you, Mr. Lewis?"

"If we are invited," was the answer, "it's all right with me."

At the White House.

LEWIS was very solemn when he entered the White House. The president greeted him pleasantly, and throughout the hour and 45-minute conference was at his most charming best.

Like Taylor, the president also talked at length about the seriousness of the international situation and the peril facing the country.

Lewis was the last to leave the president's office. As they shook hands, Roosevelt said, "You're looking well, John." Lewis replied, "Thank you, Mr. President." Lewis appeared greatly relieved when he emerged.

Note:—The November 15 deadline Lewis later announced for the suspended strike is just two days before the CIO convention in Detroit, where Lewis expects to play a leading role.

Nazi Squeeze.

THE U. S. credit freezing order and blacklist are producing real results in shutting off Nazi propaganda and subversive operations in Latin America.

Intelligence services report that Nazi embassies and legations, once well supplied with cash, now are so hard up that they are resorting to squeeze methods to obtain money from German nationals.

One scheme is to compel the nationals to send gifts of money to relatives in Germany. These funds are handled by the embassies and legations and never reach their destination. Another device is to put pressure on nationals, who were forced to sell their businesses because of the anti-Axis measures, to "invest" the funds they received in a special kind of German currency known as ruckwundermarks.

The idea is that these marks will be redeemed at the rate of 250 for 40 U. S. dollars after Germany wins the war. Whether they ever will be redeemed is a gamble the German "investor" has to take; meanwhile, his savings are providing the Nazis with desperately needed currency in Latin America.

So far, Guatemala is the only Latin American country that is blocking these operations. It is the only one that has followed the U. S. lead and frozen all Axis funds and property.

Concluding, Lear said, "It is certain that the army needs more equipment, which will be received as soon as production permits. It is equally certain that the army needs stronger discipline, harder work, and training in greater aggressiveness and initiative more even than it needs equipment."

NEW YORK—Where else but here would you find a thing like this . . . That Chinese laundry in 55th Street, I mean, where the three partners play the fiddle But not at the same time . . . They take turns . . . One fiddles while the others iron . . . It makes the wash flow faster . . . It takes a little of the pain away . . . Well, don't the big dairies play music at milking time? Wasn't a baby born to the strains of a phonograph record the other day? It was in all the newspapers. Maybe these three refugees from Mott street have something.

Stand by, please, for correction . . . In our essay on Martin Block, the pied-piper of The Make Believe Ballroom, we said he bought his time direct from station WNEW and resold it to clients . . . This isn't true. He isn't allowed to operate that way. His income is derived from salary, and from commissions on new clients attracted to the station. . . That is all.

AND another thing! The hotels and restaurants in the theatrical district could well take a tip from the Hotel Astor, which makes theater-going a little easier for its patrons who wish to have dinner before the curtain rises. On its menus are listed the titles of every play on Broadway, and every motion picture, with the address and the starting time. For instance, "Best Foot Forward," the musical, has an 8:30 curtain. But "Arsenic and Old Lace" has an 8:40 curtain. This is important to know. Traffic at this hour is all but impregnable. If you want to get there on time, ten minutes make a whale of a difference. I do not know of another restaurant or hotel dining room in New York that provides this little courtesy.

IT DOES seem at times that Sam Byrd's judgment as an actor is better than his judgment as a producer. Sam, a University of Florida boy, was a success in "Tobacco Road." . . . In this play he made a lot of money . . . Then he decided to become a producer and have actors working for him instead of being just an actor working for somebody else . . . In all he has tried three times . . . Each was an abrupt flop . . . His newest, "Good Neighbor," even had Sinclair Lewis as a director . . . As has been stated in this department before, Red Lewis ought to stick to his novels, where he wins Nobel Prizes . . . On Broadway, all he has even been able to collect, editorially at least, is scallions . . . This leaves Sam Byrd right where he was before "Good Neighbor" opened . . . "Good Neighbor" was a melancholy mistake.

Maxwell Anderson and George S. Kaufman, among dramatists, are "pacers." They rove to and fro with haggard eyes and worried expressions during the premieres. When a performance is going badly, Kaufman has been known to rush out of the theater and send sarcastic telegrams back stage to the offending actors. The most famous of these, sent to one of his stars, went something like this, "Am watching your performance from back row. Wish you were here."

A Farmer's Diary

Apple Picking, 1941

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR several years we have picked apples, for our own winter use, in a neighbor's orchard. I have four varieties piled in the garden now, for burying as soon as the weather gets cooler. ...Stamens Winesaps, Grimes Goldens, Baldwins and Starks. Of these the Grimes are nearest ripe and no apple has better flavor—yet when our small boys follow their own likings and choose apples for eating, I notice their cores are of deep red Baldwins. It seems the color of an apple is more interesting to a child than its flavor.

My wife went with me to pick apples after the children were home from school. A purposeful outing away from household cares, for her—a chance for big sister to turn housemaid and the two schoolboys to do the evening chores. We discovered a back road that goes directly to the orchard, which is atop one of the highest hills. We found the evening paper in our box along the country road and took it along.

The neighbor's big black and white collie greeted us and we drove along the grassy lane between the trees to the ones the owner had marked for our picking. The orchard floor was cool and soft with long matted bluegrass. Together, we picked the scarlet fruit as high as we could reach and emptied the basket carefully several times into the rear of our car—from which we had removed the cushion.

Then I placed a ladder high against the top, thrust my head and shoulder through a picker's sack and climbed eagerly up to where the heavy red clusters of apples were most inviting. Since no more could be reached from the ground, my wife sat on the running board of the car and while I worked, read aloud from the evening paper.

The headlines spoke of war, traffic tragedies, crimes, human struggles and disappointments. She read how the Germans were pushing east on the Russian front, how furiously the Russians were counter-attacking—how rain had made the going difficult, and snow was mercifully hiding the slain from sight.

I stood high among the topmost branches and looked far off across the quiet rows of trees, with their red and yellow fruit, and it seemed that the trees, themselves, might bind up the wounds of nations and comfort the broken hearted, could men but read their language. Thankfully, as dusk drew near, we loaded the final basket of fruit into the car, and drove back home to our little farm cottage with its peaceful patch of mellow light and its murmur of childish voices.

CHAPTER XIV

"Oh. I—why I—"She stammered, then closed her lips.

"Secret! Secret!" the girl laughed. "I don't care. It's a masquerade anyway. We'll know when you unmask. Will you tell me what you're going to wear? What you'll come as?"

Polly swallowed. "I — don't know. I hadn't thought."

"Goodness, Polly, aren't you even interested? You don't sound like yourself."

"Oh of course. Of course I am."

"They won't tell for a few days yet, but by then we'll have the screws on 'em."

"Tell what? Who?"

"Silly! Who'll lead the grand march! And you know the class officers decide that. The freshman class. They're hosts to the rest of the school. They pick whoever they want to lead it and all. Don't you even remember that, Poll? Goodness, I should think you'd—but don't you worry! Just because Joy Boone has an airplane and two cars and scads of money and clothes and everything, doesn't mean that she—"

"Please!" Polly tried to interrupt her talkative friend.

"Who does she think she is, anyway? Oh she's nice enough. But she's a New Yorker—imagine! The 1941 glamor girl, or whatever they call 'em now. Did you see her writeup and photos in the big Los Angeles newspapers? Right on the front society page. Head thrown back, laughing, with four polo players—men! —hovering around. Good night!"

"Hush, Louise!" Polly chided her. "You mustn't say things about Joy, or anybody. I'm sure she deserves everything she has."

"You're too nice, that's what. Who'd you say's taking you? Fred Randolph said he asked you. And Karren Mackey. And Phil Hart. And Bob Creamer—he even two-timed Jane trying to date you! Jane herself told me. But he came back, licking her boots. She made him eat dirt, you bet! You do rate, Polly. Who'd you choose?"

"What about yourself?" Polly asked that in sheer defense.

"Ted Swihart, silly! You know he's sitting in my palm. But you—"

Polly edged away. A sort of panic had gripped her now. More girls had come up to join in the conversation,. and wish it or not she was the center of interest. She pretended she had studying to do.

Back in the Administration building she encountered Dr. Palmer, the university president, whom she had come to like very much. He smiled cordially and paused a moment.

"Hear a lot of talk about you. Miss McMurray," he greeted her. "There's even a petition going around to get you and your escort to do the honors at the Masque. Ought to be an exciting week. And, ah, don't forget to do at least a little studying, eh? After all, we do have a university here!"

She smiled back at him. Dr. Pal. A man of infinite dignity, but with a sense of humor as well. The girls were all crazy about him.

Seeing him brought back to mind the fact that Joy Boone was, in truth, the logical person to lead the freshman ball as well as receive all the other honors here this fall.

"The world operates on politics," Polly told herself, reasoning it all out again. "Joy is unselfish at heart, but she will spend her money on whatever she likes. If she can just be made to appreciate Frontier, she might—there's no telling what she might decide to do! If she or somebody could put more money into the endowment fund the attendance might be doubled, and kids who haven't a chance anywhere else could get an education here. It's needed! But nobody dares ask Joy outright. Not yet at least. She gets so many requests for money, Miss Carlson says. Anyway it ought to come unsolicited. If Joy can just be made to love the school—really love it as I do—"

For the ensuing two days Polly knew no peace at all.

Excitement on the campus mounted. Between classes, at noon hours, all evenings, girls everywhere talked of the forthcoming ball and of the competition that had sprung up between Polly and Joy! Polly saw Joy often, said openly that the rivalry was silly and that it didn't matter who led the dance. But, wish it or no, they were candidates. Prominence is like that.

Eventually the high officers of the freshman class met in solemn session and made their decision. The class president herself announced it at the next morning's school assembly in the main ampitheater.

"We have decided," she said, "to give the honor—and it is an honor, we feel—to the person who most deserves it, to one who has brought new life to this university, to one who has made many friends although is new in this school and community, one who—"

Joy Boone's supporters broke into applause at once. Applause and shrieks of victory. Joy's face brightened. Polly tried to look pleased, and in a sense was. In another sense, though, she was deeply distressed.

"So we have selected," the speaker went on, "our beloved president, Dr. K. T. Palmer himself, to lead our grand march, with whomsoever he chooses, and it will be an honor to follow him and thus publicly welcome him into Frontier social life."

The announcement was little short of sensational.

There was a groaning in letdown. A buzz of exclamations and talk about the ampitheater. A tactful speech of acceptance by Dr. Palmer, then renewed and genuine applause. It all made exciting drama for a day in the lives of these college girls.

But one of them, Polly McMurray, realized all too well that it would simply serve to center even more attention on herself and Joy Boone. On herself, who secretly had the date with Ken Palmer, Jr., whom Joy had connived for!

Panic swelled in Polly greater than ever.

When you love a man it is good just to be near him, even though you know the love is not returned. Polly McMurray told herself that repeatedly, as excuse to "drop in" at the university library when she knew Ken Palmer would be there.

Most of the time she did not let him see her. It would never, never do to have him suspect anything! Or—would it?

"I don't see why women can't openly and frankly court the man they choose, just as men openly court the woman they want," she told herself. "But that's the way it is. I—I could never run after him. Or any man." Her problem of course was as old as civilization: to make the man of her choice take the initiative on his own. With a man as quiet and shy as Ken Palmer, it wouldn't be easy. Especially with so many other considerations to complicate matters.

Her immediate and constant worry now was the vivacious blond girl who had avowed herself to be Polly's friend. Joy Boone.

"Did you tell him, Polly?" Joy demanded. "Did you talk to him?"

"Sure. Promised to, didn't I?"

"Tell me! What did he say?" Joy was ebullient this morning. Her violet eyes literally flashed with interest.

"Oh, a lot of things. Not much, either. Ken isn't too talkative, you know. He is deep, reads and studies a lot. In fact he's about the most brilliant boy I ever knew, and needs only to find the proper outlet for his knowledge when he finishes school, but—"

"Polly, I mean about — me! About taking me to the Freshman Masquerade. Is he going to ask me?"

The dark-haired girl forced a laugh. "Give me time! I have to handle a man like Ken with gloves on."

But bluffing could go only so far, Polly knew. In truth she was desperate, striving for time to figure out some course of procedure torn between loyalty to a friend on the one hand and by normal instincts of self loyalty on the other. Unhappy with it all, she had bluffed Joy for days, while the campus built up more and more excited interest in the forthcoming party. Everywhere the talk was about the ball, who would be there with whom, who would wear what, who was saying this, that and the other.

Three days before the party Joy pinned Polly right down. It was time, Polly knew, when a definite answer had to be given. She could feel her heart pounding in this interview with Joy.

"He—Ken is so bashful," she tried again. But she realized that wouldn't work.

All at once, in desperation, she took a course she hadn't planned. On impulse she made up a deliberate if unselfish falsehood. "Joy, you mustn't expect Ken to be—be conventional. Remember he is the president's son, for one thing. Among 600 girls. And bashful by nature too. He—well, he reversed the business about you. He wants me to make his date, with you!"

"Polly!"

"Unh-hunh," a fib gets insidiously easier after the first jump in, Polly discovered. "He requested me to ask you if he might have a date. Wasn't that really better? I just led him on, and all, so that I—so that it was his own idea. I mean, I didn't have to suggest it, even. He has been practicing dancing. He wants to go. He—he made his own date. I'm just a messenger, see?"

"That's grand!" Joy was giggling.

"But don't you embarrass him!" Polly turned to her with sudden intensity. "Don't—don't say anything to him about it. Or to anyone. Just be ready. Make it as easy for him as you can."

"Of course—gee-e-e!"

The effect of all this was too plain. Joy Kathryn Boone was testing a genuinely novel experience—for the first time in her young life dating a man who was shy and retiring, a direct contrast to the cocky, too audacious youths and other males who had courted her back east. It was a brand new sensation for the sensation-loving Joy Boone.

Polly was staring off; appalled, really, at her own actions here. Her bright rounded face was almost colorless. Trouble shone in her deep brown eyes. She clutched her school books almost fiercely, and she was nervously biting her lower lip.

All at once she acted impulsively again. Suddenly contrite now for thinking unkind things, suddenly feeling a genuine liking for the blond girl beside her, she turned to Joy and squeezed her wrist.

"Listen, Joy—tell you what! You're to spend the night of the ball with me, Friday. Miss Carlson is going with Dr. Palmer—everybody's so thrilled over that! —and she'll be busy with her own make up and costuming and all. Give her freedom and stay with me, and we'll help each other. Will you?"

"Sure! I'd love it! Ken has a car. I'm crazy about his funny old wreck. It will be all right for a costume party."

"I'll tell him to come out for you," said Polly.

"DAY OF THE TRUMPET" REVIEWED FOR SERIES

Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff of Cleveland Gives Second In Book Programs Tuesday at the First Congregational Church.

By RUTH TITSCHINGER

LIFE AND DEATH of the small country of Holland is vividly told in the book "Day of the Trumpet" by David Cornel De Jong. This book was reviewed by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff of Cleveland as the second in a series of book reviews under the sponsorship of the Women's Association of the First Congregational church Tuesday afternoon in the church. De Jong, who was born in Holland, and recently returned to this country after a visit to his native land, is probably the only author who could write a book about Holland with so much realism and understanding.

The book tells how the people of that country acted to the invasion by Hitler and his troops, and what the small country went through to defend their freedom and happiness, flooding their land and destroying their homes to keep the invaders from attacking. The story centers around the life of a small boy, Dirkie, and his friends and relatives who lived in a quaint century-old town. It was a village in which the people thought that war was something you read about and whispered about but a thing which would never strike their small, beautiful country.

Although the people of Holland are now ruled by a dictator they have faith that some day they may again be free to worship and live as they please. They are thankful for having been left as much as they have and hope that, even if it takes them centuries, they can work to undo the wrong that has been done them.

Mrs. Benninghoff, a reviewer much in demand in Ohio cities, will present ten book reviews this week. She will review the book, "Big Family" by Bellamy Partridge, which recently jumped to 4th place on the National Best Seller List, in her third review of the series on Dec. 2 at the First Congregational church. Many Mansfielders not able to attend reviews in the afternoon have requested Mrs. Benninghoff to give a review on the evening of April 13. This will be open to the public.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Nov. 6.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE AUGURIES for this day point to very enterprising and ambitious plans with a tendency to engage in new and progressive projects, probably of major importance or public scope. These should be attacked with vim and assurance despite certain unstable, tricky or treacherous situations to be decisively vanquished by force, astuteness and determination. Finances may be threatened by sly methods or crafty manipulation and a peculiar feminine menace or antagonism of a public or community nature may be summarily dealt with.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and enterprising year, in which new and important projects may attract public or community approval or cooperation, albeit there may be some form of feminine disapproval to the ambitious propositions in hand. With sound plans and constructive and determined policies there is no reason why definite success should not crown worthy objectives. But safeguard finances against treachery or crafty schemes.

A child born on this day should be energetic, ambitious, shrewd and perhaps crafty or given to expediency to gain its points. While clever and astute it may yet be caught in dubious entangling alliances.

"No Child of Mine will ever get WORMS!"

Don't be so sure, Mother!

Anybody, anywhere, can have roundworms! Yes, and the ugly creatures may be living inside your child right now, starting trouble, without your even knowing it. If your child is pale, underweight, nervous, has an uneasy stomach, picks at nose or seat — these ugly roundworms may be at work.

Play safe! Get Jayne's Vermifuge at once. It acts very gently, yet expels stubborn worms. And if no worms are there, it acts just as a mild laxative. Jayne's is America's best known proprietary worm medicine, used by millions, for over a century. Demand Jayne's Vermifuge! At all drug stores.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I do not know how Miss Whitlock managed it, but she was suddenly between Lillian and the telephone, and had nodded her head sharply toward the closed door of the bedroom.

"Get him!" Her lips framed the words without sound, but I caught them, and slipping through the door I beckoned Lillian's husband and waved him in front of me into the room.

"They'll get off the wire," Lillian was protesting, although the telephone had sounded but twice.

"No, they won't," the nurse said soothingly, "and if you'll forgive me, Mrs. Graham would be much more apt to get the message straight just now than you would. Please answer it, Mrs. Graham."

As I took down the receiver, Harry Underwood strode past me and put strong arms around his wife.

"She's right, you know, Sweet, he said. "You must conserve every bit of your strength."

I seconded his opinion when the voice on the other end of the wire came to my ears.

"Western Union Company," it intoned. "Telegram for Mrs. Lillian Underwood. Is she there?"

Message Is For Lillian.

"Telegram for Lillian," I said. "Probbaly something routine."

"I know it's not," Lillian protested, but spoke no more.

The voice at the other end repeated Lillian's name and address and telephone number, and Miss Whitlock, anticipating my need, put a pencil in my hand, and blank sheets of paper on the telephone stand before me.

"Here is the body of the message," the operator said. "I do not know that I have all the words correctly spelled. It is a queer message."

My heart travelled to my shoe soles in record-breaking time, but my voice was steady.

"Go ahead," I said. "I probably can recognize the names."

My answer was purposeful. Let Lillian think the letter was about an order, or something equally innocuous, as long as she could. But intuition told me that something sinister was coming over the wires.

"You made a great mistake last night," the message began, and as the voice of the operator droned it out I had hard work to keep my voice steady.

"Please talk more slowly," I said, in as matter of fact manner as I could manage, "I want to get this down correctly."

"Okay," the voice replied, and then went on, while I gripped the pencil so hard that the point broke. But Miss Whitlock's thoughtfulness had put extra ones beside me, and I was delayed only the fraction of a second.

"You should not have mistaken the date as you did," the voice went on, "that is, if you did mistake it, which we doubt.

Gangsters Make a Threat.

"But please remember not to make this mistake again. The time is tomorrow night, the place the same. We shall expect to see you there as the letter requested. But we do not expect to see anyone else. Please remember that. Same place, same time, same seat, but alone. You will be contacted.

"Do not disregard these instructions," the telegram ended. "We have been very lenient with your account, but we are now determined to collect it. You will do well to come and talk matters over with us by yourself. We are tough bill collectors, remember, but we will play fair with anybody who plays fair with us. And remember this. We have no desire to be Shylocks, but we can be if we are compelled to do so by your disregard of our instructions. You probably will get our meaning without our having to explain it."

The operator paused, and I struck in hurriedly.

"Is that all the message?" I asked.

"Yes," he answerd, "and here is the signature."

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW HIGH CAN YOU GO

Before he opens the bidding, a thorough planner has a pretty good idea of how high he is willing to go, if nothing unusual occurs in the bidding of his partner and the opponents. If he opens the auction with a call of one suit, and his partner responds with another suit which necessitates his bidding three in order to show still another suit, he must think carefully as to whether his cards justify going that high. If they do not, he must either pass or find some other bid which can be made at the two level. That is, if he is really trying to put points on the score harder than he is trying to find the best suit for the side.

North	East	South	West

Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	3 NT

That 3-Diamond bid was the risky one. It was almost a command to bid game in No Trumps if the clubs were stopped, which indeed they were. It was too high for West's hand. When he decided to bid 1-Spade to start the ball rolling, he was strong enough to bid 2-Diamonds if East responded with 2-Clubs or with 1-No Trump. But when the response was in hearts at the range of two, he had nothing on which to base his taking the bidding as high as three.

So his job was a mere rebid of 2-Spades, which was done at one table of the same duplicate. East should pass this, as was done where that bid was made, and the contract was negotiated successfully, despite the terrifically bad break in the trump suit.

Where a No Trump game was the contract, the defenders took five tricks, the way the deal was played and might have had more if a little different course of action had developed.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ J 10 7 5 ♥ 7 6 ♦ 10 3 2 ♣ K J 8 2

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If East bids 1-Heart on this deal, South doubles. North bids 1-Spade, South 1-No Trump and all pass, West then leading the heart 2, what is the best defensive plan for East?

GEN. JOHNSON:

BY GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Senator Byrd's dictum that, judged by any standard, our defense effort is a failure, may cover a little too much territory. There are some bright spots though, even as to these, post-war post mortems are sure to show some terrible extravagances. But, generally speaking, the senator is striking pretty close to the bull's eye as every impartial non-political observer will be pretty likely to concede.

Johnson

Of course there are a good many causes for this. The one that appeals most to me is rather difficult for personal reasons to write about. Yet on a little reflection it should be too obvious to be obscured by any personal considerations.

Where are the unquestionably great men and leaders, either in the legislative or the executive departments, whose demonstrated success and leadership have put them into positions of unquestioned authority?

That there are some of that quality I do not question, but that there are any who, because of that quality, have been given their heads, remains yet to be shown.

It is getting far along enough in this emergency for this kind of man to begin to appear. At this stage in England they had certainly emerged both in this and in World War One. Grant, Lee, Jackson and Sherman had their heads well above the ruck at this stage in our Civil war. In Germany dead wood seems to have been sifted out and true leadership developed right at the outset. It took us over a year in World War One, but at this stage the men who finally did the great jobs were already known.

Who are they here now? There is too much possibility of unfairness in naming either misfits or promising performers. But the mere question is enough. Who are they now? The question defies an answer and every reader can supply his own.

The fact is that we have not developed more than a few of even demonstrated fitness and none of those has been given a chance to do his stuff. It is a system of checks and balances, divided authority and one man set against another until none goes whole-heartedly into his job. If anyone does get too rambunctious he gets his.

Generally speaking, it is a gallery of echo-men. The labor, farm and fiscal policies are such as to make full speed ahead difficult if not impossible, and the constant changes to new and ever more indefinite goals show a great lack of planning and definition of purpose. This is hardly the fault of subordiates but in such a situation, any development of the kind of subordinate leadership we are discussing here is next to impossible.

Much the same thing is true in the congress that is so apparent in the executive departments Really great men, in both houses, are so intent on listening for "His Master's Voice" that the great domestic legislative policies, without which even an effective execution of foreign policy is impossible, are neglected.

There used to be a stereotyped subject for a high school oration, "The eternal stars shine out when it is dark enough." It certainly is getting pretty dark but the eternal stars seem to have missed the train—or maybe it is just that they can't make their presence seen in the light of the president's vast lunar effulgence.

WELDER STRIKE SPREADING TO PLANE INDUSTRY

Jurisdictional Dispute Halts Work on $3,000,000 Locks at Destroyer Base.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Associate OPM Director General Sidney Hillman announced today that representatives of striking welders have asked their members to return to their jobs immediately on vital aircraft, shipbuilding and other defense work throughout the country.

(By Associated Press)

The Pacific Coast welders strike was spreading today into Southern California aircraft factories, and the navy announced that a union jurisdictional dispute had forced a shutdown of work on gates at a $3,000,000 graving dock of its San Diego destroyer base.

At Washington the defense mediation board was called into executive session to formulate its decision on the troublesome issue of a union shop for steel companies' captive soft coal mines. Chairman William J. Davis said the board's recommendations for settling the dispute would be prepared before the week-end.

A naval spokesman at San Diego said that AFL boilermakers and iron workers could not agree on which should install the gates at the graving dock, and that the navy department at Washington would be asked to decide which union should have the work.

Jimmie Goss, president of the independent United Aircraft welders, declared that 75 per cent of the overnight shift welders had walked out at the Vega and Lockheed plane factories in Burbank. The management, on the other hand, said that only 35 of the 118 welders on that shift were off the job.

A similar strike was called for 7 a. m. (PST) at the Consolidated Aircraft plant at San Diego, where nearly $750,000,000 worth of bombers are on order.

More than 8,000 welders in west coast shipyards already were reported out on strike. Their grievance was the same as that of the aircraft welders: they want a separate charter from the AFL.

The mediation board yesterday finished hearing testimony on the captive mine disagreement, and Chairman Davis said neither the United mines workers (CIO) nor the operators had changed their attitudes on the question.

Mansfield's city council, unaware at the time that it had five "lame-duck" members, held a hurried meeting last night at the Municipal building and adjourned after deciding to meet in special session on Thursday night. Only four of the present council will be on the active list after Jan. 1 as the result of yesterday's election. Three Democratic councilmen were defeated in the councilman-at-large race, while two others had already been ousted through defeats in primary contests in August.

LARGE CITIES LESS LIBERAL IN BALLOTNG

But Smaller Towns Approve Varied Additional Tax Measures.

(By Associated Press)

Tax levies fared poorly in several of Ohio's larger cities yesterday, but returns showed the proposals for additional revenue met success in more than half the localities in which they were offered. Voters were given a total of 411 tax levy requests throughout the state.

Toledoans crushed by a vote approximating two to one special levies for construction of a nursery in the Lucas county children's home, to retire library bonds, and to provide operating funds for schools and Roche Memorial Tuberculosis hospital.

Cleveland's voters defeated a city tax levy of 2.73 mills. In Cuyahoga county they turned down a welfare levy of 2.5 mills, and county officials said their welfare program would be in chaos.

Cincinnati voters authorized a $1,500,000 general hospital improvement bond issue and Hamilton county voters a $3,500,000 proposal for a new county home.

A school district bond issue for a $2,000,000 vocational schools construction program was lost.

In Columbus the vote went almost two to one against a special levy for the Franklin County Tuberculosis hospital and against a proposal for a recreation commission and levy

In other Ohio localities voters gave these decisions:

Fostoria — Approved renewal, two mills, school operation

CHICAGO STICKS TO KELLY-NASH

Machine Strength Re-affirmed By Two-to-One Victories In Judicial Election.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Strength of the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization in Chicago was reaffirmed today in returns from yesterday's judicial election in which all candidates sponsored by the organization were victorious by indicated margins of better than 2 to 1.

Victory for the so-called organization slate, which included several sitting Republican superior court judges bearing Kelly-Nash endorsement, was a defeat for the state Republican forces led by Gov. Dwight H. Green.

Gov. Green, in a series of Chicago speeches, had called for defeat of the organization candidates on the ground they were sponsored by an "insidious political machine." The governor at no time criticized the judges themselves, but asserted that they should be unseated to strike a blow at the forces led by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Democratic chairman Patrick A. Nash.

Eight of the 21 successful superior court candidates are Republicans but ran on the Democratic ticket despite pleas by Gov. Green that such a coalition "cheats the voter by taking away his right of selection."

One reason advanced for the poor G.O.P. showing was the light vote. Only about 40 per cent of more than 2,000,000 eligible voters in the county went to the polls.

CONFER ON TAX

Morgenthau, Congressmen To Try For Bill By Jan. 1.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and congressional tax leaders conferred today with a view to starting a huge new tax bill through congress before the first of the year.

Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) of the house ways and means committee and Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the senate finance committee said after the meeting, however, "no decisions have been reached yet."

It was understood that the treasury head presented to them results of a special report prepared for the treasury by Dr. Carl Shoup of Columbia university indicating that the wage earners of the country had between $5,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 of extra purchasing power which might have an inflationary effect on prices unless this money is "mopped up" by stiff new taxes.

Two Ohioans on 'Missing List' Believed Safe

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Two Ohioans, listed as missing from the sunken destroyer Reuben James, were believed to be safe today.

Philadelphia naval authorities said that Vernon Howell, Thornville, a first class fireman listed as missing from the vessel, was stationed at the Philadelphia navy yard. It was said that he was transferred to the navy yard recently.

Hiram Morgan, machinist's mate of Hamilton, was believed by relatives to be alive. Relatives in Hamilton said they had received a telegram from Morgan's wife in New York stating that her husband was not on the vessel.

Naval officials said that there may be revisions in the list of missing persons aboard the destroyer inasmuch as the discovery of two missing men indicated that the Reuben James' muster roll, from which the original list of missing was compiled, was out of date. Such revisions, it was said, could affect the total number of missing as well as individual names.

GEN. JOHNSON: Over Half of Tax Levies Carry In Ohio

BY GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Senator Byrd's dictum that, judged by any standard, our defense effort is a failure, may cover a little too much territory. There are some bright spots though, even as to these, post-war post mortems are sure to show some terrible extravagances. But, generally speaking, the senator is striking pretty close to the bull's eye as every impartial non-political observer will be pretty likely to concede.

Johnson

Of course there are a good many causes for this. The one that appeals most to me is rather difficult for personal reasons to write about. Yet on a little reflection it should be too obvious to be obscured by any personal considerations.

Where are the unquestionably great men and leaders, either in the legislative or the executive departments, whose demonstrated success and leadership have put them into positions of unquestioned authority?

That there are some of that quality I do not question, but that there are any who, because of that quality, have been given their heads, remains yet to be shown.

It is getting far along enough in this emergency for this kind of man to begin to appear. At this stage in England, they had certainly emerged both in this and in World War One. Grant, Lee, Jackson and Sherman had their heads well above the ruck at this stage in our Civil war. In Germany dead wood seems to have been sifted out and true leadership developed right at the outset. It took us over a year in World War One, but at this stage the men who finally did the great jobs were already known.

Who are they here now? There is too much possibility of unfairness in naming either misfits or promising performers. But the mere question is enough. Who are they now? The question defies an answer and every reader can supply his own.

The fact is that we have not developed more than a few of even demonstrated fitness and none of those has been given a chance to do his stuff. It is a system of checks and balances, divided authority and one man set against another until none goes whole-heartedly into his job. If anyone does get too rambunctious he gets his.

Generally speaking, it is a gallery of echo-men. The labor, farm and fiscal policies are such as to make full speed ahead difficult if not impossible, and the constant changes to new and ever more indefinite goals show a great lack of planning and definition of purpose. This is hardly the fault of subordiates but in such a situation, any development of the kind of subordinate leadership we are discussing here is next to impossible.

Much the same thing is true in the congress that is so apparent in the executive departments. Really great men, in both houses, are so intent on listening for "His Master's Voice" that the great domestic legislative policies, without which even an effective execution of foreign policy is impossible, are neglected.

There used to be a stereotyped subject for a high school oration, "The eternal stars shine out when it is dark enough." It certainly is getting pretty dark but the eternal stars seem to have missed the train—or maybe it is just that they can't make their presence seen in the light of the president's vast lunar effulgence.

WELDER STRIKE SPREADING TO PLANE INDUSTRY

Jurisdictional Dispute Halts Work on $3,000,000 Locks at Destroyer Base.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U P)— Associate OPM Director General Sidney Hillman announced today that representatives of striking welders have asked their members to return to their jobs immediately on vital aircraft, shipbuilding and other defense work throughout the country.

(By Associated Press)

The Pacific Coast welders strike was spreading today into Southern California aircraft factories, and the navy announced that a union jurisdictional dispute had forced a shutdown of work on gates at a $3,000,000 graving dock of its San Diego destroyer base.

At Washington the defense mediation board was called into executive session to formulate its decision on the troublesome issue of a union shop for steel companies' captive soft coal mines. Chairman William J. Davis said the board's recommendations for settling the dispute would be prepared before the week-end.

A naval spokesman at San Diego said that AFL boilermakers and iron workers could not agree on which should install the gates at the graving dock, and that the navy department at Washington would be asked to decide which union should have the work.

Jimmie Goss, president of the independent United Aircraft welders, declared that 75 per cent of the overnight shift welders had walked out at the Vega and Lockheed plane factories in Burbank The management, on the other hand, said that only 35 of the 118 welders on that shift were off the job.

A similar strike was called for 7 a. m. (PST) at the Consolidated Aircraft plant at San Diego, where nearly $750,000,000 worth of bombers are on order.

More than 8000 welders in west coast shipyards already were reported out on strike. Their grievance was the same as that of the aircraft welders: they want a separate charter from the AFL.

The mediation board yesterday finished hearing testimony on the captive mine disagreement, and Chairman Davis said neither the United mines workers (CIO) nor the operators had changed their attitudes on the question.

CHICAGO STICKS TO KELLY-NASH

Machine Strength Re-affirmed By Two-to-One Victories In Judicial Election.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Strength of the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization in Chicago was reaffirmed today in returns from yesterday's judicial election in which all candidates sponsored by the organization were victorious by indicated margins of better than 2 to 1.

Victory for the so-called organization slate, which included several sitting Republican superior court judges bearing Kelly-Nash endorsement, was a defeat for the state Republican forces led by Gov. Dwight H. Green.

Gov. Green, in a series of Chicago speeches, had called for defeat of the organization candidates on the ground they were sponsored by an "insidious political machine." The governor at no time criticized the judges themselves, but asserted that they should be unseated to strike a blow at the forces led by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Democratic chairman Patrick A. Nash.

Eight of the 21 successful superior court candidates are Republicans but ran on the Democratic ticket despite pleas by Gov. Green that such a coalition "cheats the voter by taking away his right of selection."

One reason advanced for the poor G.O.P. showing was the light vote. Only about 40 per cent of more than 2,000,000 eligible voters in the county went to the polls.

CITY, COUNTY SCHOOL BOARDS TO HAVE THREE NEW MEMBERS

The Mansfield board of education will have one new member and the Richland county board two new ones next year as the result of yesterday's election

W. O. Leedy, 470 Woodward avenue, will replace Dr. John S. Hattery on the Mansfield board, while H. W. Arlin and Alvin H. Fankhauser were re-elected yesterday without opposition.

Leedy, active in P. T. A work, became a candidate when Dr. Hattery announced he would not seek re-election. Dr. Hattery, Arlin, and Fankhouser have served eight years on the board.

Arlin, president of the board, received the largest complimentary vote of the three candidates. His total was 7,610. Fankhauser polled 7,555, and Leedy, 6,773.

Emery Culler, Lucas, and R. B. Garber, Bellville, won places on the Richland county board while Clarence G. Tugend of Worthington township was defeated for re-election. One of the newcomers will succeed Neil S Robinson, Madison township, who was not a candidate for re-election. Leland Clever, Franklin township, was the only member of the board who was re-elected yesterday.

The total unofficial vote gave Clever 2,826 votes, Garber, 2,408; Culler, 2,395, and Tugend, 1,618.

In a heated Madison township school contest involving six candidates, two members of the present township board were unseated by Harold F Tingley and H F Roberts. Defeated for re-election were Esley Cleckner and Fred A. Matthes. L C. Hughes was successful in his bid for another term, J. B Belt was the sixth candidate

Tingley topped the Madison board candidates with 364 votes. Totals for the others included Hughes, 338; Roberts 321, Cleckner, 316, Matthes, 301, and Belt, 262.

CONFER ON TAX

Morgenthau, Congressmen To Try For Bill By Jan. 1.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and congressional tax leaders conferred today with a view to starting a huge new tax bill through congress before the first of the year.

Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) of the house ways and means committee and Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the senate finance committee said after the meeting, however, "no decisions have been reached yet."

It was understood that the treasury head presented to them results of a special report prepared for the treasury by Dr. Carl Shoup of Columbia university indicating that the wage earners of the country had between $5,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 of extra purchasing power which might have an inflationary effect on prices unless this money is "mopped up" by stiff new taxes.

London Reports Many Die From Starvation; Misery Spreads.

LARGE CITIES LESS LIBERAL IN BALLOTNG

But Smaller Towns Approve Varied Additional Tax Measures.

(By Associated Press)

Tax levies fared poorly in several of Ohio's larger cities yesterday, but returns showed the proposals for additional revenue met success in more than half the localities in which they were offered. Voters were given a total of 411 tax levy requests throughout the state.

Toledoans crushed by a vote approximating two to one special levies for construction of a nursery in the Lucas county children's home, to retire library bonds, and to provide operating funds for schools and Roche Memorial Tuberculosis hospital.

Cleveland's voters defeated a city tax levy of 2.73 mills. In Cuyahoga county they turned down a welfare levy of 2.5 mills, and county officials said their welfare program would be in chaos.

Cincinnati voters authorized a $1,500,000 general hospital improvement bond issue and Hamilton county voters a $3,500,000 proposal for a new county home.

A school district bond issue for a $2,000,000 vocational schools construction program was lost.

In Columbus the vote went almost two to one against a special levy for the Franklin County Tuberculosis hospital and against a proposal for a recreation commission and levy

In other Ohio localities voters gave these decisions:

Fostoria — Approved renewal, two mills, school operation.

London — Approved one-half mill, library.

Sandusky—Rejected 1½ mills, $60,000 fund to increase fire department personnel.

Van Wert—Approved one-half mill, $3,300 annually for three years, park and cemetery upkeep.

Portsmouth—Rejected one mill, $49,000 annually for poor relief.

Delaware—Rejected four mills, $27,000 for general operations.

Alliance—Rejected seven-tenths mill, $21,000 annually for school operating expenses.

Woodsfield — Rejected 3 mill school levy, approved one mill sewage levy.

Hamilton—Butler county apparently defeated one-fourth mill three-year levy for hospitalization of tuberculosis patients; Hamilton voted against it

East Liverpool — Rejected one mill, garbage disposal.

Hillsboro — Approved a 3 mill school levy but defeated two-tenths mill playground proposal and rejected half-mill library levy.

Kent—Approved six-tenths mill for five years to strengthen fire protection.

Bellefontaine—Rejected special levy for employment of additional policemen and firemen; defeated Logan county relief levy.

Delphos — Approved two mills for five years, public lighting.

Celina — Rejected one mill, schools.

Marysville—Approved two mills, schools operating funds.

Sidney—Approved three mills, Green township school operations.

Canton—Rejected 1.68 mills for retirement of school bonds.

Youngstown—Renewed 3.6-mill levy for five years to cover school operating costs; Mahoning county approved a half-mill for operating tuberculosis sanitorium.

Lancaster—Defeated additional two-mill school levy.

Columbus—Franklin county rejected .65-mill tuberculosis hospital levy.

Columbus—Rejected 2-mill recreation program.

Two Ohioans on 'Missing List' Believed Safe

COLUMBUS —(U P)— Two Ohioans, listed as missing from the sunken destroyer Reuben James, were believed to be safe today.

Philadelphia naval authorities said that Vernon Howell, Thornville, a first class fireman listed as missing from the vessel, was stationed at the Philadelphia navy yard. It was said that he was transferred to the navy yard recently.

Hiram Morgan, machinist's mate of Hamilton, was believed by relatives to be alive. Relatives in Hamilton said they had received a telegram from Morgan's wife in New York stating that her husband was not on the vessel.

Naval officials said that there may be revisions in the list of missing persons aboard the destroyer inasmuch as the discovery of two missing men indicated that the Reuben James' muster roll, from which the original list of missing was compiled, was out of date. Such revisions, it was said, could affect the total number of missing as well as individual names.

He meets his Waterloo in a young Boston school teacher, played by Lana Turner, who shares his lot despite the protests of her father, cut from the same strip of cloth as the card sharp. The picture is filled with drama and action and has a cast that includes Marjorie Main, Claire Trevor and Albert Dekker.

Start Check On Unregistered Slot, Pinball Machines

Internal revenus collectors said yesterday that a large number of Mansfield and Richland county owners of pinball, slot machines, and other amusement devices, had registered their machines by midnight Friday to avoid prosecution under the new federal revenue act.

A federal tax of $50 a year on slot machines, ranging downward to $10 a year on pinball machines, and $10 a year for each bowling alley, billiard table, or pool table, has been levied under the new act.

If the levies were unpaid by midnight, Friday, owners of these devices are subject to a five per cent penalty for each month the taxes remain delinquent.

Revenue collectors said that a canvass had begun yesterday to determine compliance with the law, although they were unable to release any figures, either on registrations or on the amount of levies paid

Calls 'Problem Children' Chief Labor Headache

CLEVELAND— (INS) —"Problem children" are America's number one headache in the labor field according to Daniel F. Hurley, resident department of labor conciliator in Cleveland.

"Raw, fresh from school, the farm or the soda fountain, these youths are pouring into mass production factories by the thousands.

"They frequently outnumber the older, 'family man' type of worker, have absolutely no understanding of industrial relations, little or no responsibility, and are ready to strike at the drop of a hat for a 10-cent-an-hour raise," the 30-year-old labor conciliator declared.

As a result, Hurley explained, traditionally responsible unions are plagued with a succession of "wildcat strikes."

Hurley, nevertheless, looked forward to a sharp decrease in defense industry strikes as young workers become educated to their responsibilities.

Iowa Girls Study Intricacies Of Auto Mechanics

CLINTON, Ia. — (INS) — An increasing number of young ladies living in Clinton are eliminating the possibility that they might at some time be marooned in a stalled automobile.

In the near future, the time-honored gag "out of gas" will probably bring a quick and efficient check of the gasoline tank, the wiring, the carburetor and any other part which might have caused the car to stop.

Boy friends might find it to their advantage, however, to invite the girls out for a Sunday afternoon of valve-grinding, piston replacement or anything else the old bus might need.

A group of girls, now numbering 36, is taking a National Youth Administration course in automobile mechanics, woodwork and sheet-metal work under the direction of Edward A. Berg, former Muscatine, Ia., garage operator.

The course is being sponsored by the NYA for the purpose of providing replacements in vital industries when and if men who ordinarily do such work are called into military service.

The busiest thoroughfare in town

Lined with bright, exciting windows freshly stocked with today's news, the newspaper is the busiest thoroughfare in town . . . busier today than ever before.

In some windows you find news of the home town, the nation, and the rest of the world. In some you find entertainment, advice, interpretation. In others you find news of the goods and services offered by manufacturers and retailers.

Every day in the week, every week in the year, you and your family travel this busy street, looking for things that interest you . . . and finding them in both the news and advertising windows.

Practically everybody in every community walks along this thoroughfare of news and advertising every day . . . simply because the newspaper is indispensable to everybody everywhere. That's why the 37,000,000 families in the United States and Canada buy, and read, over 43,300,000 newspapers every weekday . . . over 33,000,000 newspapers every Sunday.

And because everybody is so intensely interested in the contents of the newspaper, it's easy to understand why advertisers, national and local, find newspaper space the most effective medium with which to tell their story and sell their goods.

Fans Grab Up Additional Tickets for Friday's Game

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

That oldie about Mansfield high school joining an Ohio Big Eight basketball league has been revived by the Springfield News, but Coach Vern Hoffman of the Tyger tossers rushes forward to deny it once more.

It seems the chief difficulty with the league is that it isn't big, and it isn't eight. And it offers no inducement at all for Mansfield in the way of rivalry.

Said the Springfield News: "Only six of the eight schools actually will play in the league this year, Mansfield high school delaying its entrance for one season since its schedule for 1941-42 had already been filled, and Marion Harding being without a playing court.

"Springfield, however, has booked a single game with Mansfield in preparation for the full operation of the league next year. Other teams set to start play are Kenton, Dayton Roosevelt, Lima Central, Middletown, Portsmouth and Lima South."

"I might have kidded 'em along at bit," says Hoffman, "but I told them nothing to make them think Mansfield would join the league in 1942."

* * *

Until, and if, Marion joins the league, there's no ready-made rivalry for Mansfield in that circuit, and it's doubtful if any would ever develop.

Weakness of the league is shown by the fact that it stepped into Dayton for Roosevelt, while Stivers and Steel stayed out. Roosevelt has had its good seasons, but year in and year out it doesn't step along with Stivers and Steel.

"Besides," continues Hoffman, "we've got rivalries now that we can't afford to drop with Massillon and Canton McKinley.

"And look at our schedule for this winter. We're playing the toughest in just about every section of the state. Besides McKinley and Massillon, there's Akron West in that direction. There's Mt Vernon and Ashland in the N C O league, Bellevue in the Buckeye league, Newark in the Central Ohio league, Sandusky and Elyria in the Lake Erie league, South of Columbus, New Philadelphia and Youngstown Cheney in southeastern Ohio, Springfield from the Big Eight, and Hamilton down south.

"We could never have a schedule like that if we joined the Big Eight league," he concluded.

* * *

It looks right now as though Springfield, motivating spirit behind organization of the Big Eight, may not be the toughest member this winter.

Coach Elwood Pitzer, the former Wittenberg great, has only two lettermen back, Elmer Bean, the football end, and Danny Walker, both guards. And both graduate at midyear.

By the time Mansfield plays at Springfield Feb. 14, the Wildcats will have an entirely green outfit.

Sportsman's Club Sponsors Shoot

An old fashioned turkey shoot will be sponsored by the Charles Mill sportsman club Sunday on the grounds of the Mansfield Muzzle Loader Gun club.

Starting at 9 a. m. and open until dark the shoot will offer competitions in muzzle loader, .22 caliber, iron, open and telescopic sight matches and a trap shooting event.

* * *

Prizes will consist of turkeys, ducks and chicken, club officials said, and ammunition, targets and refreshments will be available at the gun club.

* * *

Located two miles west of Mansfield, the gun club grounds are on U. S. route 30S.

Proceeds will be used to improve fishing and hunting facilities in the Charles Mill leake area.

GOPHERS LETDOWN

MINNEAPOLIS — (INS) — A letdown of spirit was Coach Bernie Bierman's biggest worry today as the Minnesota squad stepped through intensive defense drills preparatory to meeting the Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday. Bierman said the Gophers reached their season's height against Northwestern and were due for a pitfall.

Ohio Play To Stress Defensive

Bucks Will Attempt To Hold High Scoring Back.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio State university's grid squad practices this week have all the aspects of a "Stop Harder" movement.

No pun intended, Harder's first name is Pat and he's the Western conference's leading scorer with 32 points. The flashy sophomore is coming to town for a workout at Buckeye stadium Saturday afternoon.

Carroll Widdoes and Fritz Heisler, Ohio State scouts and assistant coaches, agree that Harder didn't get his reputation without a lot of fancy running. He's really good, they say, being an elusive, hard-hitting ball carrier.

Although Wisconsin has won only two of five games played, the Badgers have rolled up 91 points to the 89 scored by Ohio State in winning four out of five. So the anticipated 65,000 onlookers may see a free-scoring contest Saturday.

Jack Graf, Ohio fullback whose absence from the lineup contributed greatly to the loss to Northwestern, is wearing a leather protector for his weak knee and is expected to be ready for service against Wisconsin.

As for Wisconsin, the question is "Will the Badgers be hot—or cold?"

Because if Wisconsin is having one of its lukewarm days, the Buckeyes should take round one of the four-day battle for second place in the Big Ten. But if the Badgers are hot . . .

Harry Stuhldreher, director of Wisconsin's football fortunes, has seen the Badgers polish off Iowa, 23-0, and Indiana, 27-25. He has watched them go dizzy before Syracuse, which won, 27-20, last Saturday.

He also has been present at Marquette's 28-7 rout of the Badgers and at Northwestern's 41-14 victory. And as Stuhldreher thinks it over, all he can says is:

"I can't understand it."

Stuhldreher is inclined to blame Wisconsin's shortcomings on weakness in fundamentals.

GEHRINGER REFUSES TO CONSIDER TRIBE JOB

DETROIT — (INS) — Charley Gehringer, veteran Detroit Tiger second baseman, said today "I'm through with baseball" and added "I can think of more pleasant ways of getting a headache than managing the Cleveland Indians."

He made his remark concerning Cleveland when asked about reports he had been offered a contract to manage Cleveland.

Rams Build Line Defense

Ready System To Hold Off Tackle Galloping.

With a special night prepared for their Boosters and Parents' clubs, the Madison Rams will meet Fostoria St. Wendelin on the Ram turf tomorrow night at 8 p. m.

* * *

Marking the last time the Madison team will take the field this year, the game will match the Rams against a team stressing the Notre Dame formations and an attack built on off tackle runs.

* * *

Ram gridders who will be depended upon to stop the St. Wendelin Mohawks off tackles will be Jack Fletcher and Paul Wynn at the ends and Bob Garn and Don Stone at the tackles.

If these players can prove tougher and more aggressive than St. Wendelin the Fostoria attack will be bogged down.

* * *

Other Ram starters will probably be Batson and Keller at guards, Spriesterbaugh at center; Willy Wynn, quarter; Harold Hammer, and Reynold Bell, halves; and Ken Windsor at full.

* * *

Biggest danger facing the Al Fendrick coached Rams is a let down after last Thursday's all out affair against the Bellville Blue Jays. During the Bellville tilt, the Rams did everything and big quantities and brought Windsor out as a running back.

37TH DIVISION GRIDDERS SWAMPED BY TOLEDO CLUB

TOLEDO — (AP) — The 37th Division football team from Camp Shelby, Miss., found gridiron maneuvers a bit tougher than the southern war games in losing to the University of Toledo Rockets 39 to 0 here last night.

The Rockets, paced by Backfielder Bobby Nash who scored three touchdowns, completely outclassed the army eleven in making three touchdowns in each half. The game climaxed Toledo's defense bond sales day.

HARMON'S INDUCTION NOTICE IN MAILS

GARY, Ind — (INS) — A notice was in the mails today for Tom Harmon, former football great at the University of Michigan, that he is liable to induction in the army on Nov. 19.

Announcement that the notice had been sent Harmon, along with 25 other young men, was made by the football star's local draft board in Gary.

BACK RETURNS

LAFAYETTE, Ind — (INS) — The Purdue squad, heartened by the return of Tony Berto at right half and Co-Capt. Tom Melton at right guard, went through a light scrimmage today as it prepared to battle Michigan State Saturday in a game dedicated to Purdue men in the armed forces. Melton, out of action for two weeks, appeared to be in good shape once again.

BROWN, FIGHT MANAGER, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

NEW YORK — (INS) — Funeral arrangements were being made today for Lou Brown, veteran boxing manager, who died of a heart attack yesterday on his 49th birthday.

Brown, who once ran up a $250,000 fortune in the fight world and then lost it all on Wall Street, was associated with Jimmy Bronson

600 Sold Tuesday for Homecoming Battle

Only 400 Seats Left; 1,000 Standing Room Ducats Offered

WHILE Coach Paul Snyder and his Mansfield high Tygers work to perfect a defense against Canton McKinley's brilliant aerial attack and hard-hitting ground game, Mansfield's fans are joining in a feverish rush for tickets for Friday night's homecoming grid battle at Stadium field.

George Sherman, chairman of ticket sales, yesterday placed 1,000 additional ducats on sale in downtown stores representing seats on benches along the cinder track and in additional bleachers on the south end of the field. Tickets for the stadium proper had been sold out last Saturday.

Only 400 of yesterday's 1,000 additional tickets remained unsold this morning, and indications were that they'd be grabbed up today. About 1,000 standing room tickets will be on sale the night of the game, Sherman said today, bringing the crowd to about 8,000, or the same as the record attendance for last year's Massillon game.

* * *

The football frenzy which struck Mansfield the week before the Massillon trip this fall, is coming back again. Loss of Adam Brandt to the Tyger attack has made the Mansfield club no better than an even choice against the Bulldogs of McKinley, and this fact has served to increase rather than detract from interest in the Friday battle. Mansfield must beat McKinley to remain in the running for state title honors.

The Tygers will be strengthened this week by the return of Joe Romano and Bill Pecht to the lineup. Jim Burrage and John Butler played great ball as subs for the Tyger end and tackle, giving the Tygers assurance that they now have two good men for those positions.

McKinley also will have a star back out of action for this game. Aaron Simms, regular right halfback and chief blocker in the Bulldog backfield, was injured in the Steubenville game last Saturday and may be out for the rest of the season.

Homecoming ceremonies, including the introduction of the homecoming queen and her attendants between halves, will add color to Mansfield's big home game of the season.

Trig Error Causes Gripe

Scholastic Runners Find Race of Varied Lengths.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — A slight error in trigonometry by an Ohio Wesleyan student caused H. R. Townsend, state high school sports czar, a minor headache today.

* * *

It seems that the Y-shaped course laid out by the student for the state scholastic cross country meet forced half of the competitors to run 100 yards further than the other half.

* * *

As a result, Coach Russell Paugh of Springfield high school has protested to Townsend. He said that the section including his squad not only had to travel further but had to run against the wind and uphill.

The facts are these, according to Townsend:

* * *

A heavy list of entries prompted sponsors of the meet to lay out a Y course with the two prongs of the Y as the starting points to accommodate more starters. The student assigned to lay out the course measured off one prong approximately 100 yards longer than the other.

* * *

Springfield, the defending state champion, finished ninth in the 1941 event last Saturday which was won by Akron North, running the shorter course. Townsend has not yet made a decision on Springfield's protest.

HOLDS LIGHT WORK

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — (INS) — Acting to minimize injuries, Navy Coach Swede Larson today ordered that only light practice be held the rest of the week for the Notre Dame clash Saturday at Baltimore. The Middies are working on a pass defense against the Irish.

TRUCKS SAVE MULES

DENVER —(U P)— The machine age has made another stride of progress. Trucks had to be called to a nearby swamp to pull two healthy mules out of the mud in which they were helplessly stuck.

Touchdown Tactics

By FRANK W. LEAHY
Notre Dame Football Coach.

SITUATION: Fourth down, one yard to go, the ball is on your 26 yard line with three minutes left to play. You are leading 6 to 0. You have a fair plunger, a fast halfback around end, a very good kicker, and an excellent passer. Your opponents have had little success with passes and their running game has been only fair.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

1. Pass?
2. Plunge?
3. Sweep the end?
4. Kick?

(Answer in tomorrow's paper.)

YESTERDAY'S PROBLEM
By WALLACE WADE
Duke Football Coach.

THE SITUATION: It is the first quarter of the game with the score nothing to nothing. It is your ball on your opponents' 25-yard line, second down and one yard to go.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

ANSWER

I would advise our quarterback to pass. If the pass is completed, it should result in a long gain or a touchdown. If it is incomplete, there should be no loss of yardage and two downs remain in which to make a first down. If a conservative play is tried, and is successful, there likely will still be considerable distance to go for a touchdown. If a deceptive running play is tried and fails, ground might be lost which would leave a difficult situation for making the first down.

MODEST BUYING ORDERS ADD UP AFTER ELECTION

Market Shows Sizable Number of Gains Ranging From Fractions To Point.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The election day interlude brought a modest accumulation of buying orders in stocks today and the market achieved a sizable number of gains ranging from fractions to around a point.

Dealings, fairly active at the start, slackened near the second hour. Bidders centered their interest in industrials, showing a special preference for shares which gave a good account of themselves in Monday's moderate upturn.

Helping to develop interest in the buying side, brokers reported, was the absence of any notably adverse foreign news over the holiday. On the other hand, the market again had the benefit of encouraging earnings statements and dividend announcements.

Further indications of a sharp cut in building operations outside defense fields were seen by business analysts in the report of engineering news-record covering October.

Contracts for the period totaled $406,332,000. Private awards on a weekly average basis were 3½ per cent higher than in the preceding month but 59 per cent lower than in the similar month last year.
